COX TO "PROVE" HIS CAMPAIGN FUND CHARGE IN SPEECH THURSDAY

Democratic Presidential Candidate Says He Will Present Information in Evening Address at Pittsburgh.

WILL ALSO INFORM
SENATE COMMITTEE

"Prepared to Believe" Harding Ignorant of Some Things "Going on Around Him," a "Dangerous Symptom."

By the Associated Press.

DATTON, O., Aug. 24.—Gov. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, today gave out a statement, declaring that he would "prove" his charges regarding magnitude of Republican campaign funds. He stated that he would present his information in his address next Thursday night at Pittsburgh.

The statement of Gov. Cox follows:

"Senator Harding denies my charges about the campaign fund which the senatorial oligarchy is raising. I am prepared to believe that he knows nothing about a lot of things that are going on around him. This reveals the very dangerous symptom, which I have been discussing. In my Pittsburgh speech this week I will advise the country as to matters of which the Senator claims to be ignorant and I will prove my charges.

"The Governor made no reference to reports that he might be asked before the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee. His presence has not been requested, it was said, and it was reiterated today that he had advised Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, of the committee, that he would transmit information in time for the committee's meeting next Monday.

Several long distance telephone conferences were held today by the Governor with party leaders regarding assembling of information relating to Republican financing. Much of the information was said to relate to the Ohio campaign.

SENATORS MAY SUBPENA COX FOR TESTIMONY

Party Leaders Are Ordered to Appear Before Committee and Tell of Contributions.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Governor Cox, Democratic nominee, probably will be subpoenaed and compelled to appear before the Senate Campaign Committee which has announced plans for investigating the Republican and Democratic national campaigns, unless he comes of his own free will, a member of the committee told the Associated Press last night. This member of the committee said that its members felt that Governor Cox must prove or withdraw his charges that the Republicans were raising a $15,000,000 campaign fund and that the committee was prepared to go to any length to obtain evidence in the matter. No official subpoena will be issued, however, until the committee meets next Monday.

"If Gov. Cox has not given us a satisfactory reply by that time, I feel certain a subpoena will be issued," the committee members said. The statement was made when members of the committee were shown dispatches quoting Gov. Cox as saying he "saw no use in appearing before the committee," although he would furnish it with evidence, but felt that he "should be allowed to do so when he saw fit."

To Investigate Primaries. Included in the matters to be taken up when the committee reconvenes next Monday will be an investigation of the Oklahoma Democratic senatorial primaries in which Senator Gore was defeated and the pre-convention Kansas campaigns. It was said.

The committee has ordered leaders in each party to appear before it with all books, papers and information in their possession concerning the campaign activities, financial or otherwise, of their party. Included in the list summoned were Wm. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee; George White, chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Fred Upham and Wilbur Marsh, treasurers respectively of the Republican and Democratic national committees; Homer Cummings, former

Russians Issue Call for Volunteers to Fight Poles and Gen. Wrangel

MOSCOW, Aug. 23.

THE Government conference of the Communist party here has decided that the raising of additional volunteer troops for the red army is necessary in view of the changed military situation. A resolution must be developed among the masses, workers and peasants, in favor of a volunteer movement for the red army in the struggle against Wrangel.

"It, therefore, calls upon all party organizations to carry out a party mobilization with the same accuracy and rapidity as before and arrange for businesslike discussions of measures to be taken to assist on Wrangel's front. Also widespread agitation must be developed among the masses, workers and peasants, in favor of a volunteer movement for the red army in the struggle against Wrangel."

"The Governor made no reference to reports that he might be asked before the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee. His presence has not been requested, it was said, and it was reiterated today that he had advised Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, of the committee, that he would transmit information in time for the committee's meeting next Monday.

BOGY NAMED TO RUN IN STIFEL'S PLACE

Choice for Nominee for Congress Ran Second in Primary to Candidate Who Killed Self.

Bernard P. Bogy, of 14114 Rowan avenue, was selected this afternoon by the Eleventh District Congressional Committee as Republican nominee for Congress for that district, to take the place of Otto F. Stifel, who shot and killed himself last Wednesday.

The committee met at the former headquarters of the North End Y. M. C. A. at Nineteenth street and St. Louis avenue. Bogy's name was submitted by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney I. Joel Wilson and his selection was unanimous. George Hohmann, chairman of the committee, and Elmer Moore were the only absent members. Both are out of the city. E. E. Butler, who succeeded his father-in-law, "Hank" Weeks, as a member of the City Committee, presided as vice chairman.

After being notified of his selection, Bogy filed his candidacy with the Board of Election Commissioners. At the Aug. 9 primary election Bogy ran second to Stifel in a field of four. Stifel received 8296 votes and Bogy 1985.

It was understood before Stifel filed as a primary candidate that the nomination had been promised to Bogy by political leaders in the district and that they expected their promise when they found that Stifel would run. Since Stifel's death Bogy had the active support of Nicholas Polito, Committee-man of the Fourth Ward.

400 CASES OF KAFFIR-COWPOX IN ISLAND OF JAMAICA

Prince of Wales Sends Message Expressing Distress at Outbreak of the Epidemic.

By the Associated Press. KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 24.—The Prince of Wales sent a message to the Governor of Jamaica expressing his distress over the outbreak of epidemic on the island. He assured the people of his warm sympathy for them in their misfortune, and expressed the hope that the disease would be speedily arrested.

The epidemic is not smallpox, as was feared at first, but has been diagnosed as kaffir-cowpox. Four hundred cases have been reported.

ALLIES DEMAND JUST TERMS OF PEACE FOR POLES

Lloyd George and Giolitti Send Virtual Ultimatum Against Proposal for Proletariat Army in Poland.

BREACH OF FAITH BY RUSSIANS CHARGED

Premiers to Defer Resumption of Negotiations With Bolsheviks Until Proposal Is Withdrawn.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Arthur J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council, on behalf of Premier Lloyd George, last night sent to Leo Kameff, Russian Soviet representative here, a copy of the communiqué issued in Lucerne as a result of the conference of Premiers Lloyd George and Giolitti.

Balfour pointed out that, according to the latest information, the Bolshevik terms to Poland fundamentally contradicted those Kameff communicated to Great Britain recently. Balfour asked if this information was correct, and if so, whether the Bolsheviks intended to adhere to the new terms.

Answer by Friday evening at the latest was asked for by Balfour, who cited the urgency of the matter, and said that on the answer to these questions depended the future policy of Great Britain.

Great Britain and Italy will refuse recognition to the Russian Soviet Government if it does not withdraw its demand, presented as a part of the peace terms at Moscow, for a proletarian army in Poland. This has been decided upon by Premiers Lloyd George and Giolitti of Great Britain and Italy, who have been meeting since Sunday at Lucerne, Switzerland. A statement given to the press in that city yesterday by the two Premiers declared they had resolved to defer resumption of diplomatic relations with the Moscow Government until it withdrew what was described as "this sinister proposal."

Presentation of this clause in the terms of peace laid before the Polish delegates at Minsk, after M. Kameff, Soviet representative here, had announced nothing important would be added to the peace conditions made public by him in this city last week, was denounced as a "gross breach of faith" in the Premiers' statement.

It was said that negotiations of any kind with a Government "which so lightly treats its word" become "difficult, if not impossible." It is understood here that a virtual ultimatum has been sent to Moscow by the two Premiers, whose decision relative to recognition of the Bolshevik Government is viewed as approval of the stand made against that step by Premier Millerand of France. The Premiers indicated the need of a secure to Poland the use of the corridor south of Danzing and would, if necessary, use troops to carry out their plans in this region.

"The victors in war," said the Premier's statement, "should display a spirit of moderation in their enforcement of terms and the vanquished a spirit of loyalty in their execution. With this aim, England and Italy trust that the good understanding reached at Spa will be further developed to cover all outstanding questions."

"Before peace is fully established, however, there are a number of important questions to be decided, a majority of which are indisputably connected with the march of events in territories of the former Russian empire. Until peace is fully established between Russia and the rest of the world an atmosphere of disturbance and unsettlement will continue to menace the world."

So-Called Civil Army. "Therefore, the British and Italian Governments have been taking steps. In the face of much misrepresentation, to restore communications between Russia and the world outside. Therefore, with profound regret, they have just heard that the Soviet Government, despite repeated promises to the contrary, given officially on their behalf in London, have sought to impose on Poland conditions incompatible with national independence."

"The Government of Poland is based on the choice of the whole adult male population of the country without distinction of class, and this so-called civil army, to be drawn from one class only, which is referred to in the fourth condition of the Soviet terms, is only an indirect method of organizing a force to overthrow by violence this democratic constitution and substitute a dictatorship."

FOUR U. S. FLYERS FROM MINEOLA ARRIVE IN NOME

Actual Flying Time From New York to Alaska 55 Hours; Return Hop-Off in Few Days.

By the Associated Press. NOME, Alaska, Aug. 24.—The four U. S. airplanes flying from Mineola, N. Y., to Nome, arrived here from Ruby, Alaska, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The actual flying time from New York was 55 hours, Capt. St. Clair Street, head of the expedition, announced. The hop-off on the return trip to New York will be made in a few days. The four airplanes left Ruby yesterday afternoon at 3:10 o'clock.

WESTERN UNION MESSENGERS RETURN AFTER 3-HOUR STRIKE

42 Boys Go Back to Work on Condition That Demands for Increased Pay Are Considered.

Forty-two messenger boys employed at the downtown office of the Western Union Telegraph Co., returned to work at noon today after having been on strike three hours for an increase in wages. Their return was on condition that their request for a raise be determined today, and if a raise is not granted at the meeting of local officers of the company to be held in the afternoon, they threaten to walk out again tomorrow morning and remain out until their demands are met.

The present rate of pay is from 2 1/2 cents to 7 1/2 cents for the first message in a zone, depending upon distance traversed, and 1 1/2 cents for each additional message in the same zone. The boys are asking for a raise of 1 cent on the initial message in each zone. Some of the strikers complained that under the present system of zoning they were able to make no more than $6 to $10 per week.

Last week's payroll shows that messenger boys working on the commission basis made sums varying from $8 to $34. J. J. McCloskey, a spokesman for the boys, said the low salaries were due to the fact that some of the messengers worked only part time, and others divided their time between several branches of the business. He said a voluntary increase of about 20 per cent had been given to messengers on April 1.

FRATERNITY HOUSE AT COLUMBIA PARTLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Chapter House Damaged by Early Morning Blaze.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 24.—The Sigma Alpha Epsilon Chapter House here was partly destroyed by fire about 1 o'clock this morning and the roof was burned from a vacant frame house adjoining it on the north. The Sigma Alpha house was one of the finest and most substantially built frame houses in the West. The entire upper story was burned. The furniture in the house ruined. It was built of stone, and will probably cost $25,000 to rebuild the upper story. The fraternity has many members in Missouri, and hundreds of those who attended Missouri University made their home at the fraternity house while in school.

MAN ESCAPES PROSECUTION BY RETURNING $1900

Money Was Savings of Two Sons of a Widow and Disappeared Along With Miner She Married.

HAD BEEN KEPT HIDDEN IN MATTRESS

Suspected Searcher Was Locked in St. Louis Hotel Room Without Clothing to Prevent Escape.

A hunt for hidden money has been completed successfully at Staunton, Ill., 38 miles from St. Louis, after a stop over night at the Maryland Hotel in this city, where one of the searchers was locked in a room, with no clothing except his underwear, to prevent his escape from the others.

Frank Rozine, a miner employed at Orient, near West Frankfort, Ill., recently married a widow with two grown sons. The sons, Luke and Mike Yurse, complained soon after the wedding that their savings, $1900, had been removed from the mattress where they kept it.

$200 Reward Offered. Rozine was not found when the complaint was made, and a reward of $200 was offered for information as to his whereabouts. He returned and asked City Judge W. G. Mitchell of West Frankfort to act as his lawyer.

Judge Mitchell insisted that Rozine should tell all he knew about the money. Rozine then told him the money was at Staunton. He said he would find the money and restore it to the owners, only on condition that he should not be turned over to the Sheriff or police.

Judge Mitchell and A. O. Fryman of Orient, local Police Magistrate, started for Staunton with Rozine. Rozine, who had been in Staunton for three weeks ago, the club was closed. Tierney said, but when it reopened the Sergeants resumed their visits and reported that they never found any evidence of gambling.

Kemper Confesses to Police. Kemper, in his confession following his arrest at 8 o'clock last night, told the police that he had visited the club on an average of two or three times a week in the last year.

At 11 o'clock last night, a police gambling squad, under direction of Night Chief Gerk, went to the club. The doors were locked and when the detectives were admitted, after they had hammered on the front door for two minutes, they found the clubroom dark.

When the lights were turned on the detectives saw 26 men grouped about pool tables, each holding a cue. This amused the detectives.

"You fellows must be expert cue artists to be able to play in the dark," said Lieut. Wade Matthews, who was in charge of the raid. "While the booze has nothing on us," one of the players replied.

Daley Not at Club. Daley was not at the club when the raid was made, but James J. Carroll, 30 years old, of 221 North Compton avenue, recognized by the police as a professional bondsman, and identified by Kemper as an running the dice game, was among the 26 men taken.

Kemper was released on a $1000 bond furnished by his brother, Harry Kemper, and was ordered to appear next Tuesday in the Court of Criminal Correction. His case will be submitted to the Circuit Attorney.

ST. CHARLES' POPULATION 8503, LOSS OF 9.9 PER CENT

The population of St. Charles was announced today by the Census Bureau in Washington as 8503, a decrease of 9.9, or 9.9 per cent, from the 1910 figures.

St. Charles showed a population of 9437 in the 1910 census, this being an increase of 15 per cent over the 1900 population, which was 7982. For the 10 years from 1890 to 1900 the increase was 29 per cent, the 1890 population having been 6161.

MODERN FOODS BAD FOR TEETH

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Aug. 24.—The Eskimo in his natural state, living directly off of the land and sea, is free from dental decay, but when he eats the foods of civilization has trouble with his teeth, V. Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, has found.

In a letter to Dr. Percy R. Howe of this city, today before the National Dental Association, the explorer said he had noted particularly that the Eskimo showed extensive tooth decay when he was given modern foods.

CLUB RAIDED AFTER COLLECTOR SAYS HE LOST $1459 THERE

Val H. Kemper, Held for Embezzling From Real Estate Firm, Says Dice Game Caused His Trouble.

26 MEN TAKEN AT OLIVE STREET PLACE

Police of Laclede District Have Key to Club, Which Is Sponsored by Lawrence P. Daley.

Val H. Kemper's confession that he had embezzled $1459 from the Julius Haller Real Estate Co., 18 North Eighth street, by which he was employed as collector, and had lost the money in "bucking a dice game" at the Seventeenth Ward Democratic Club, 2931A Olive street, resulted in a police raid on the club at 11 o'clock last night, in which 26 men were arrested. Kemper is 28 years old, and resides with his mother at 3928 Nebraska avenue.

Lawrence P. Daley, 3028A Olive street, Democratic City Committee man of the Seventeenth Ward and until recently Chairman of the Democratic City Committee, is the leader of the club, and sponsored it several months ago, when complaints were made to the police that gambling was going on there. Daley had a key made for the front door and gave it to Capt. Tierney of the Laclede Avenue Police District, telling him to send policemen to the club whenever he had reason to believe that there was any gambling there.

Capt. Tierney gave the key to Sergeants in charge of the various platoons and instructed them to keep a close watch on the club for gambling. For three months prior to three weeks ago, the club was closed. Tierney said, but when it reopened the Sergeants resumed their visits and reported that they never found any evidence of gambling.

RELIGIOUS ADVICE GIVEN TO CHILDREN IN MOTHER'S WILL

Widow Commits Heirs "To Tender Love of Our Lord" and Counsels Them to Pray.

Mrs. Aurelia C. Evans, a widow, gave her children religious advice in her will, which was filed for probate yesterday.

"I commit my children," she said, "to the tender love and care of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, and I counsel them to call upon him often in their daily need, since he has assured us that he careth for us and will provide every good and needful thing; and I further recommend my children to bear one another's burdens."

Special bequests in the will to her children are as follows: $7500 to Martha W. Evans and $5000 each to Mrs. Cayloma Ittner, Mrs. Eleanor Claggett, Mrs. Bertha Pendleton and Walker Evans. One dollar each is bequeathed to two other children, Mrs. Augusta Gaines and Asber D. Evans, because they heretofore have received their respective shares. George W. Ittner, 1723 Simpson place, son-in-law of the testatrix, is appointed executor.

Mrs. Evans, who was 82 years old, died Aug. 17 at the Ittner home. She was the widow of A. G. Evans, a Civil War veteran and member of a St. Louis commission firm. She had been a resident here for more than 45 years.

INCREASE IN RAIL RATES IN MISSOURI AND PHONE RATES IN CITY GRATED

State Public Service Commission Authorizes Advance in Passenger Fares From 3 to 3.6 Cents a Mile—Residence Bell Phones Up 50 Cents a Month.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 24.—The Missouri Public Service Commission today voted to authorize the railroads to increase their passenger and freight rates, and sleeping car fares, within the State, Sept. 1, to correspond with the increases granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission for all interstate traffic. It also granted to the Bell Telephone Co. the increase in its St. Louis local rates, for which it applied in June. This increase also will go into effect Sept. 1.

SUFFRAGE APPROVAL CERTIFIED TO COLBY

Tennessee Governor Acts When Attorney-General Rules There Are No Obstacles.

By the Associated Press. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 24.—Frank M. Thompson, Attorney-General of Tennessee, announced today that Gov. A. H. Roberts at 10:20 o'clock this morning certified Tennessee's ratification of the suffrage amendment, sending the certification to Secretary of State Colby by mail.

Chief Justice Landen of the State Supreme Court agreed today to review proceedings in the Chancery Court which issued a temporary injunction preventing certification to Washington by ratification by the Legislature of the Federal suffrage amendment.

The announcement was made after Chief Justice Landen, on petition of the Attorney-General, had vacated the injunction granting a writ of certiorari and a writ of habeas corpus virtually taking proceedings in the injunction case brought to prevent certification out of the hands of Justice Langford in the county chancery court. Justice Landen ordered all records in the case before the Supreme Court for review.

Attorney-General Thompson declared the action of Justice Landen vacating the injunction granted by the lower court and it was on this express opinion that the Governor certified ratification to Washington.

Argument by the Attorney-General on his motion that the Supreme Court take jurisdiction was made before Justice Landen last night at the Justice's home. Opponents of ratification charge that the proceedings violate the rule of the Supreme Court in that the other party was not notified that the hearing was to be held.

The increase in passenger fares within Missouri will be 20 per cent, or from 3 cents to 3.6 cents a mile. The freight rate increase ranges from 25 to 40 per cent, and sleeping car fares are increased by 50 per cent.

The St. Louis new telephone rates show a flat increase of 50 cents a month on all residence telephones. Four-party line service, the cheapest class of service, is increased from $2.50 to $3 a month; two-party line service from $3.25 to $3.75, and straight line residence telephones from $4 to $4.50. On straight line business telephones, the increase is from $9 to $13 a month.

Increase in Effect Sept. 1. The new Missouri intrastate railroad rates will become effective six days after the new interstate rates, as the interstate rates go into effect Thursday. In that interval, the fares in Missouri will remain at the present rates, but the difference to the railroad companies will have to be made up by the United States Government, members of the Commission said, under the terms of the Government's guarantee to the railroads.

The legal passenger rate within Missouri, by State enactment, was 2 1/2 cents a mile, until the wartime rate of 3 cents took precedence. The wartime rate expires Sept. 1, so that if the commission had not taken action, fares would have reverted to a 2 1/2-cent basis.

The increase in telephone rates was granted, after nearly two months' delay, on the pledge of the Bell company, made through E. D. Nims, the president, that the added amount will be applied entirely to the pay of employees, in order to improve the service, the defective character of which has been admitted by the company.

Bell Company to Use Additional Revenue to Improve Service.

W. G. Barry, general commercial superintendent of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., today issued the following statement in regard to the increase in rates granted by the Public Service Commission: "Under the ruling of the commission, the increase will amount to $675,

POLES CAPTURE MLAWA, BIALYSTOK AND PRZASNYSZ

By the Associated Press.
WARSAW, Aug. 24.—The capture of Przasnysz, 60 miles north of Warsaw, and Mlawka, on the Polish frontier, 75 miles northwest of the capital, is reported in the Polish official statement issued last night. The bulk of the fourth Russian army and the entire Third Cavalry Corps have been surrounded by the Poles, the statement says.

The Polish forces have captured Lomza, 75 miles northeast of Warsaw, and Nalystok, 50 miles east of Lomza, it is reported in today's official communiqué.

The communication reads: "We have taken Przasnysz and Mlawka, separating divisions of the Fifteenth Soviet army which is covering the retreat. We have surrounded the bulk of the Fourth army and the whole of the Third Cavalry Corps. Our booty is enormous and our prisoners very numerous. We have also taken Soldau, Zambrów and Mazowiec (to the southeast of Lomza). We have crossed the Narwa south of Bialystok, capturing 22 heavy guns intended for the bombardment of Warsaw. The demoralization of the Bolsheviks is evident. The Bolsheviks are heading southward. The detachments attacking Lemberg are retreating. We have reached the line of the River Bug and occupied Strzyż."

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Official dispatches from Warsaw say the Poles have captured 63,000 prisoners, 200 guns and 6,000 machine guns.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Russian Bolshevik forces in the region of Lomza, about 75 miles northeast of Warsaw, and Bialystok, about 65 miles northwest of Brest-Litovsk, are engaged in heavy fighting against advancing Polish legions, according to an official statement issued yesterday in Moscow and received here today.

In the Brest-Litovsk region there is no change in the situation, the statement says, while further south in the neighborhood of Vladimir-Volynsk, near Lemberg, the battle continues.

7000 Russians Disarmed in East Prussia.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Seven thousand Russian Soviet soldiers with their equipment have crossed the German frontier in the region of Willenberg, East Prussia. They were disarmed and interned.

The Lokal Anzeiger's correspondent on the Russian front reports that the Russian retreat along the East Prussian border has developed into a panic under pressure of the Polish cavalry. Herds of cattle, cavalry and infantry are intermingled in the flight. Officers and commissaries are trying to restore order with their revolvers. Some of the commissaries have thrown away their weapons.

The correspondent says that the Reds declare they do not stand the fire of the Polish and Lithuanian troops who attacked them from short distances and whose bombs worked havoc. They evidently were unaccustomed to Western fighting methods.

The correspondent of the Tageblatt at Frankfurt says that the First Russian Army is in full retreat in the direction of Grodno. The staff of the Fourth Army and all the revolutionary committees have evacuated Lomza, whose inhabitants had formed a militia force in the service of the revolutionary government, which also is in flight. Lomza was pillaged before the evacuation.

It is reported that strong Russian reserves are stationed at Grodno and are being sent forward to Bialystok. The Lomza-Bialystok-Brest-Litovsk railway is in the hands of the Poles; consequently, retreat in the southeasterly direction is impossible. The revolutionary committees have fled from Grajewo and other places.

SAMOANS CHARGE RULE BY U. S. NAVY IS AUTOCRATIC

Accused Persons Must Prove Innocence and Code of Laws Denies the Right of Trial by Jury.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
SPECIAL AGENT. American Samoa, July 27.—Demonstrations of natives of American Samoa against the naval administration under Gay W. J. Terhune culminated today after months of rock fights in the dispatch of an appeal by native kings and chiefs to President Wilson that a board of inquiry be sent here to investigate conditions.

Coincidentally members of the Mormon mission here dispatched appeals to United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah for an investigation of conditions affecting their interests and the welfare of the natives.

American Samoa and Guam, another American island possession in the Pacific, are two American possessions under autocratic rule by Governors under the Navy Department.

The code under which laws are administered in Samoa provides that accused persons must prove their innocence. They are denied right of trial by jury. These and other conditions involving charges against officials of the administration, have been outlined in reports forwarded to the Navy Department and form the basis upon which the natives request that the President send a commission to the island to investigate conditions.

No request is made for independence, the petition to the President urging only that a board of inquiry review conditions at the island and determine the situation.

The following order issued Nov. 25, 1919, added to the discontent of the natives:

"From Commandant
"To Navy Personnel
"Subject: Navy Station Regulations Concerning Marriages:
"1. All marriages of members of the navy personnel attached to this station and ships with persons of other races are prohibited."
"W. J. TERHUNE."

In defense of Gov. Terhune's administration, his representatives constant warfare, is menaced by the prospect. The British and Italian Governments, therefore, are urged to make a joint effort to bring to a conclusion the existing conditions of strife between nations."

tute for it the despotism of a privileged few who may have absorbed the doctrines of Bolshevism.

"We cannot help apprehending that, when the detailed conditions of the composition of this force—key back as they are now—are revealed later on, they will be found to be molded on the plan of the Russian Red army. For one nation to insist as a condition of peace with another nation that the force organized for the protection of life, property and good order to the latter country shall be drawn from only one class of its citizens, to the exclusion of all others, is an unwarranted infringement of the liberty, independence and self-respect of that country."

Gross Breach of Faith.

"To have added such a condition, after Kamenek's pledges to the British Government that nothing of a secondary nature was omitted from his summary of the terms, is a gross breach of faith, and negotiation of any kind with a Government which so lightly treats its word becomes difficult. It is impossible."

"The Soviet Government has rejected the suggestion by the British Government for a truce under conditions which would have guaranteed Russian territory against any acts of aggression, and has continued its career of invasion of ethnographical Poland, with a view to the conquest of that country by force of arms for Soviet institutions."

"If the Soviet Government, notwithstanding the numerous violations of the Versailles treaty, which must be respected, Poland, he declared, must be able to supply herself by way of Danzig. 'However, we have learned that ships were not stopped at Danzig,' he added."

Signor Giolitti said that the Lucerne meeting was not a European conference. Adding, "the points pending will be settled at Aix." Signor Giolitti said he thought there was no point on which there was not unanimous agreement.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—The French Foreign Office announced today that the Government regarded the new attitude taken by Premier Lloyd George and Giolitti concerning Soviet Russia and Poland as due entirely to the American note to Italy.

The Premier's attitude was expressed in the note they sent France from Lucerne yesterday, in which they stated they were in accord with the United States and France that Poland would endanger her independence if she accepted the Soviet terms.

The communication of the British and Italian Prime Ministers was answered by the French Foreign Office with a note expressing pleasure that they expressed the same views with regard to the Polish situation that France holds.

Gov. Terhune's supporters declare it is openly asserted that Lieutenant-Commander Boucher called a meeting of chiefs of the Island of Tutuila at which resolutions were passed requesting the order detaching Boucher from the station be rescinded and that all civil officials and employees of the Government here be dismissed and investigations be made into administration of several departments of the administration.

The Governor's representatives also hear the natives were expressed by the natives until the arrival of Lieutenant-Commander Boucher.

While the petition of the Samoan natives was made to the Navy Department, an announcement was made by the Navy Department that Capt. W. B. Evans, recently commander of the dreadnaught Wyoming, attached to the Pacific Fleet, had been ordered to American Samoa to succeed Commander Terhune as Governor.

His Anti-Whistling Order.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The complaints of the natives of American Samoa against the naval administration of the country have served to recall the recent anti-whistling order which was followed by the removal of Capt. W. W. Gilmer, Naval Governor of Guam. Secretary Daniels said the whistling order had no bearing on the case.

Whistling was prohibited in the city of Agaña, Guam, in the following order:

"The practice of whistling is an entirely unnecessary and irritating noise which must be discontinued. It is therefore ordered and decreed that no persons shall whistle within the limits of the city of Agaña. The penalty for a violation of this order shall be an executive fine not to exceed $5."

Lloyd George's View of Wilson Policy Toward Russia.

By the Associated Press.
LUCERNE, Aug. 23.—Premier Lloyd George, replying to a question of newspaper correspondents, yesterday, said he considered President Wilson's present policy as regards Russia, as inconsistent with his declaration with regard to the principle of self-determination. He added that he had no wish or intention of mixing into American internal affairs. He made the same comment concerning France when he was asked about the recognition of Wrangel, saying "that is their affair."

The conference between Lloyd George and Signor Giolitti concluded this evening when the premiers sent the following telegram to M. Millerand:

"In finishing our Lucerne conference, we send you a cordial salute and look forward with pleasure to the earliest occasion when both of us can meet your excellency."

The official statement with regard to the proposal to the allies to give Poland freedom in the use of Danzig, did not say whether diplomatic or military action was contemplated.

The general impression is that the Lucerne meeting was more important than was first thought, and there seems to be no doubt that a reliable friend of France, which hitherto had been lacking, was reached between the two premiers and promises well for their coming meeting with the French Premier.

Lloyd George told the correspondents that he probably would be present at this meeting. Speaking of Danzig Lloyd George laid emphasis on the statement that the intervention of the allies in the Danzig question was a violation of the Versailles treaty, which must be respected. Poland, he declared, must be able to supply herself by way of Danzig. "However, we have learned that ships were not stopped at Danzig," he added.

Signor Giolitti said that the Lucerne meeting was not a European conference. Adding, "the points pending will be settled at Aix." Signor Giolitti said he thought there was no point on which there was not unanimous agreement.

POLISH ARMIES NOT TO INVADE RUSSIA AGAIN

U. S. to Be Assured They Will Stay Within Natural Frontiers.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Complete assurance will be given the United States, it was stated yesterday in Polish official circles, that Poland's victorious armies will not pursue their advance beyond the natural frontiers of the reconstituted republic. An early communication from Warsaw to this effect was expected by these officials. Representations setting forth the views of this Government have been made through the legation at Warsaw, the State Department announced yesterday, the communication reiterating the stand taken by Secretary Colby in his recent note to the Italian Ambassador.

The position of the American Government as outlined then was that the allied and associated Powers should unite in a declaration favoring the preservation of the integrity of Russia, such a declaration to be accompanied by the assurance that no transgression by Poland will be permitted.

The Polish reply, legation officials said, would set at rest any suspicions that Poland was contemplating the prolongation of hostilities into an offensive war against Russia. Assurances of this nature, it was added, already had been given the Soviet peace delegates at Minsk.

No formal representations have been exchanged with the allies by the United States regarding the possible transition of the Polish operations from an offensive to a defensive character. The American position is understood to be satisfied with the situation as set forth in its note and representations made to the Polish Government have been only an elaboration of the principles enunciated in that document.

The first approach to a joint allied policy toward the respective situations is believed here to have been made by Premier Lloyd George, in his present conferences with Signor Giolitti of Italy, and in the discussions with Premier Millerand of France it is also regarded by officials here as significant in this connection that the British Premier is reported to be planning to receive this week the German Premier, Dr. Fehrenbach, and the Italian Premier, Signor Giolitti.

McLaughlin of New York, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; and Representative Frank Doremus of Michigan and W. A. Oldfield of Arkansas, of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

Several other witnesses will be summoned before the committee sessions begin. Chairman Kenyon of Iowa said each witness summoned was instructed to bring any other persons who might be able to furnish information concerning the campaign activities of either party.

Chairman Senate Purpose.

"We are going to ask everything there is to know about the work of both parties," said Senator Kenyon. "There have been reports that the Republicans were raising money in a ring of corporations was contributed largely to their fund and that various persons were offering Federal positions as a reward for political help from certain men."

"We are going into these things thoroughly and, while we hope to get them all cleared up within about three weeks, we are ready to remain in session until election day if necessary."

Will Hays and George White signified their willingness to attend the hearings and give any information possible. Senator Kenyon said he talked with Hays by telephone and that the Republican chairman told him he "welcomed the investigation."

Only $94,353 Raised, Says Republican Treasurer.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, said today that since the Chicago convention less than $1,000,000 had been raised by his party.

The exact sum shown on the treasurer's books as collected for the national fund, Upham said, was $944,353.82. He added that Hays' estimate of $2,000,000, the total required to carry on the campaign, was "quite correct."

Upham expressed the opinion that Gov. Cox, in charging that more than $700,000 was raised "in one place," was speaking of the State of Illinois, where this amount was raised, "but for purposes of national, state and county campaigns, combined," Ohio, he said, for both state and county campaigns had collected $149,000.

HARDING PLEADS FOR BREAK FROM "ONE-LEAD" GOVERNMENT

Front Porch.

By the Associated Press.
MARION, O., Aug. 24.—A plea that the nation get away from "one-lead" activities so that each citizen can play his part in the development of American democracy was made today by Senator Harding in an address here to a delegation of actors and actresses representing the Harding and Coolidge Theatrical League.

Senator Harding declared the standards of the American stage should be the highest in the world. He also paid tribute to the work of moving picture producers, saying that there was "no single avenue for the dissemination of information equal to that of the moving picture."

"Some of our people lately have been willing to become citizens of the world," he said. "Not so long since I met a fine, elderly daughter of Virginia, who would have been justified in boasting her origin in the old dominion and uttering her American pride. But I was shocked to hear her say, 'I am no longer an American, I am a citizen of the world.'"

"Frankly, I am not so universal. I rejoice to be an American and love the name, the land, the people and the life of this country."

Senator Harding reserved time for a conference on various aspects of the campaign with Charles Evans Hughes, Republican presidential nominee four years ago. Hughes came to the Senator's invitation and it was said that many important subjects were to be talked over before he departed.

WAR VETERAN TO SUCCEED FURLONG ON EFFICIENCY BOARD

Fred A. Renick Named By Mayor
Kiel as Democratic Member
When Term Expires.

Fred A. Renick, 30 years old, residing at the Flanzer Hotel, who, as an ambulance driver in the recent war, lost his right arm and the bearing in his left ear and was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross and the French Croix de Guerre, will be appointed to succeed Frank Furlong as the Democratic member of the Efficiency Board when Furlong's term expires Sept. 4. Mayor Kiel announced today.

Renick is now a stock and bond salesman. His salary as a member of the Efficiency Board will be $2000 a year, but his duties on the board will not interfere with his work as a bond salesman, as the board meets only once or twice a week in short sessions.

Renick was recommended for the place on the board by Robert Burkham, St. Louis chairman of the American Legion.

WARANTS ARE ISSUED FOR 41 RAILWAY STRIKE LEADERS

MUSICIAN IS ACCUSED OF HYPNOTIC SCHEME

Mrs. Wm. Rockefeller Charges
J. W. Marsh With Unduly Influencing Her Daughter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Two versions of a tale of hypnotism, shabby gentility and the alleged scheme of a broken-down nobleman to acquire an American fortune by marrying a girl of subnormal intellect, involving on the side the family of Rockefeller in the persons of Mrs. Elinore Rockefeller, widow of William Rockefeller, and her daughter, Violet, and on the other side an English noble house in the person of John William Marsh, 62-year-old music master, were told in the Gates avenue court, Brooklyn, yesterday when Mrs. Rockefeller applied for a summons for the arrest of Marsh.

First charging that Marsh had forced his attentions on her subnormal daughter, Violet, so persistently that she had been obliged to place her in the Welcome Home for Girls at Throop avenue and Decatur street to keep her from him, the document attached to the application for the summons rehearsed the story of a strange association of the Rockefellers with Marsh. According to Mrs. Rockefeller, Marsh went to her three years ago after financial reverses and was taken into her home at 1128 Bedford avenue. She charges he began to exert a "hypnotic" influence over Violet, often took her to seaside resorts and theaters against her mother's wishes and says she will produce letters in which Marsh urged Violet to elope with him to California.

On several occasions she says Marsh met her with her daughter in the streets, and, taking Violet by the arm, separated her from her daughter, who, she says, was then charged on improper conduct on the part of Marsh.

John D. Rockefeller (first cousin of Violet's father) gave Violet an allowance and the expenses of her medical care, including the cost of an operation for appendicitis last year.

Mrs. R. C. Talbot-Perkins and Mrs. Mary Kavanaugh, club women of Brooklyn, offered the expenses of her medical care, including the cost of an operation for appendicitis last year.

Mrs. R. C. Talbot-Perkins and Mrs. Mary Kavanaugh, club women of Brooklyn, offered the expenses of her medical care, including the cost of an operation for appendicitis last year.

The case will be brought before Magistrate Edwards next Thursday, when Marsh will make a general denial of Mrs. Rockefeller's accusations and maintain his interest in Miss Rockefeller was sympathetic and paternal.

AMERICAN ORANGEMEN IN FIRST CONVENTION IN FOUR YEARS

Sinn Fein Movement Is Domestic Concern of British.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The Supreme Grand Lodge of the United States of the Loyal Orange Institution opened its first convention in four years today with 500 delegates from every State present.

"We Orangemen here in the United States hold that the Sinn Fein movement is purely a domestic concern of the British Empire and that the United States has no more right to interfere than the British Empire would have mixing in our relations with the Philippine Islands," said George T. Lemmon, New York, secretary, who has just returned from the international meeting at Belfast, Ireland, where the Loyal Orange Institution expressed its opposition to the Sinn Fein movement in Ireland and in favor of a union with England.

The officers in charge today were George Stewart, Clinton, Mass., supreme grand master; Hugh Wilson, Pittsburgh, deputy grand master; Richard Harris, Pittsburg, treasurer, and George T. Lemmon, secretary.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN FACTORY AFTER MAN LEAPS FROM WINDOW

Twenty-first and Cass Damaged
About $2000.

Contents of a four-story brick building at the southwest corner of Twenty-first street and Cass avenue, occupied by the Blackmore Manufacturing Co., were damaged about $2000 by a fire which broke out at 9:30 a. m. today.

Origin of the fire, which started in the basement, was undetermined, but Julius Ganz, of 2919 Montgomery street, an employee, told policemen that just about the time the fire was discovered he saw a rat-clad as a laborer jump out of a window on the Twenty-first street side of the factory and run away.

The Blackmore Company manufactures upholstered furniture, and the stock and fixtures was estimated to be worth $100,000 by J. L. Blackmore, president, who said he knew no reason for an effort to burn the factory.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Standard plans for rat-proofing business buildings, dwellings and wharves are being drawn up by the Public Health Service as part of its campaign to stamp bubonic plague out of the country. The plans are to be furnished to States and cities for incorporation in building codes.

"While bubonic plague is under control in this country, there will always be scattered infection until the rat can be exterminated," said Surgeon-General Cummings.

"According to authoritative estimates, there is one rat for every person in the United States. To maintain this huge number of rats costs the people of this country approximately 1 cent per person per day for rat food, an intolerable and unnecessary burden for the people to carry."

MILLERAND INVITES TOWER TO LET POLISH MUNITIONS THROUGH

Acting President of Supreme Council Wires Commissioner at Danzig to Follow Treaty.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Aug. 24.—Premier Millerand of France, acting as president of the Supreme Council, has telegraphed Sir Reginald Tower, acting High Commissioner at Danzig, inviting him to assure to Poland complete liberty in the importation of war material through Danzig, as provided for in the Versailles treaty.

Premier Millerand also invited Sir Reginald to use all the resources in his power to assist in the unloading of ammunition already in the Danzig roads and all that may reach the free city in the future.

The French Premier's instructions came shortly after the British Charge d'Affaires Henderson called at the Foreign Office and informed M. Millerand that Premier Lloyd George recognized "the absolutely formal right of Poland to export and import through Danzig without restriction, as provided in Article 194 of the Versailles treaty."

HAS NEAREST COMPLETE LAW LIBRARY IN WORLD

Hampton L. Carson of Philadelphia, President of Bar Association, Tells of Books.

Hampton L. Carson of Philadelphia, who, as president, will preside at the St. Louis meeting of the American Bar Association opening tomorrow, discouraged interestingly to a Post-Dispatch reporter today concerning his collection of original manuscripts, first editions and autographed portraits, forming, according to common estimate, the rarest collection of law classics extant. The collection of more than 8000 books is an unbroken chain of first editions from the first printed edition of the first law work ever written (Glanville on Practice, 1135), down to contemporaneous authors. The collection embraces record of Anglo-Saxon common law in any one collection in the world. The collection is supported by original manuscripts of the law authorities centuries together with more than 12,000 portraits, many of them autographed.

Before Age of Printing.
The collection includes many original manuscripts of the period prior to the invention of printing, including the first editions of all the printed books of modern law scholars throwing light on the period preceding the invention of printing, from the time of Alfred the Great (ninth century). It includes the first books of the 16-year period between the invention of printing and 1500, a period called by book collectors "in the cradle," because of the very limited production during it and the few specimens that have survived. The collection embraces first editions of virtually all the notable legal works of the Anglo-Saxon bar, from 1490 to 1774, when the first edition of Blackstone in America was published.

Random selections denote the scope of the collection and its rarity: Manuscript dated 1283 of the time of Edward I, to lawyers the greatest of English kings, "Iter book of Judge Solomon de Rochester, Sussex," in which the judge passed on certain questions concerning franchises from the crown.

An original manuscript of Magna Charta, dated 1260.

Copy of the laws of Scotland, the identical copy used by King James I of England.

Within this comprehensive collection is another collection, only one of its kind and one that causes Carson to comment: "The wonder is that England ever let it escape" original manuscripts, autographed portraits and other originals throwing light upon the life and works of the greatest of commentators, Sir William Blackstone. The collection includes the 21 English editions of Blackstone's Commentaries from the first in 1767, and the 16 American editions from the first in 1774. Carson also possesses Blackstone's commission as a judge, an original summons to Privy Council and many other manuscripts from the library of the famous lawyer. One is a letter in which Blackstone criticizes certain characteristics in Gainsborough's portrait of himself.

One of the Carson volumes is "A Discourse on the Study of Law," being an introductory lecture read in the public schools, Oct. 25, 1758, by William Blackstone, Esq., a first edition, of course.

The collection represents 44 years of search. Carson illustrated the assiduity of that search by an incident relating to his effort to collect manuscripts of all American jurists, for his law collection does not end with works dealing with the beginnings of Anglo-Saxon law. It takes up American law from the publication of Blackstone's Commentaries, in 1774, and carries it to the present day.

Search for Manuscript.
"I had been seeking for some time a manuscript of St. George Tucker of Virginia, one of Washington's first judicial appointees, together with a portrait," Carson said. "I knew that an old friend, Harry St. George Tucker of Virginia, who, by the way, will be the next president of the American Bar Association, a great-grandson of the noted jurist, possessed them. I obtained from him a promise of the manuscripts I sought, a promise that was renewed upon our frequent meetings in assemblies such as the Bar Association sessions.

"Each time I met Tucker with query, 'What about those manuscripts?' and each time he renewed his promise. 'I won't forget again, Carson,' he would say. At last it became a joke with us.

"One of these meetings was in Salt Lake City. As I spied him in the hotel lobby, I began: 'What about those—'

"He broke in: 'Oh, come along, you old crank, and get away from your books. We're going swimming in Salt Lake.'

"I told him that I knew of an old bookstore in Salt Lake and was going to browse around. He scoffed, and urged the swim, but I went to the bookstore.

"I was again in the hotel lobby upon return of the swimming party.

"Well, you old crank, we had a dandy swim," Tucker began.

"Yes," I broke in, "and while you were having your fine swim, I found in that bookstore an original letter of your great-grandfather, together with a portrait of him, and you need not worry about that promise any longer."

FOUR U. S. OFFICERS TO DIRECT PERU'S NAVAL REORGANIZATION

Peruvian Naval Academy to Be Modified After Annapolis School—
Detail to Remain 2 Years.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Four United States naval officers will sail for Peru tomorrow on the steamship Santa Eliza to take charge of the reorganization of Peru's navy and naval academy. It was announced here today. They are Commander F. B. Frayer, in charge; Commander Lewis D. Causey, both of whom are on the active list; Lieutenant-Commander Charles G. Davis, retired, and Lieut. Paul Fitzsimmons, of the reserve force.

This initiates the custom authorized recently by Congress to detail officers of the American navy to aid in building up the armies and navies of the South American republics. Peru was the first to request such aid. The Peruvian naval academy will be modeled after the Annapolis school, it was said. The officers will remain on the assignment two years.

Blind Peddler Swindled.

Police are searching for a man who swindled John McKeenan, a blind broom peddler, 400 South Main street, out of $2.75 yesterday. McKeenan, with a companion, was selling brooms along Third street when near Elm street a man stopped him and "bought" a broom for a quarter. Then he asked McKeenan for change for a $10-bill and when McKeenan counted out the $2.75 the "customer" ran into an alley, dropped the broom and disappeared.

National Bank of Commerce Enjoined From Paying $97,500.

The petition of Apple-Van Raalte & Co., a local firm of brokers, to enjoin the National Bank of Commerce from paying $97,500 to a San Francisco firm on a sight draft issued by the local company was denied yesterday by Circuit Judge Grimm.

The draft was given in a transaction by which the San Francisco firm agreed to deliver to the petitioner not later than June 15, it was alleged, 450 tons of rice. The rice, it is alleged, was not delivered on time and the customer to whom the St. Louis firm expected to sell it declined to buy because of the delay in the shipment. The plaintiff also has a similar suit pending against the same bank involving 150 tons of rice.

In refusing the order Judge Grimm held that the petitioner has another remedy at law and that there was no need for an injunction. The question of whether a State court can legally enjoin a national bank was argued. Counsel for the bank held that under an act of Congress passed in 1864 the State court was without jurisdiction. The petitioner's counsel declared that the act referred to was a Civil War measure and had been repealed by later legislation. Judge Grimm, however, did not decide the point.

WHISKY RING IN OHIO UNCOVERED

Cleveland Declared to Be Center of Wholesale Blockade-Running Combination.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 24.—A whisky ring with ramifications extending from Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Ohio to New York and other Atlantic coast cities, has been uncovered by Federal officials here. The Government authorities promise to expose a great blockade running combine, involving several Ohio men.

The names of these men, including that of a candidate for a state office in the last Ohio elections, are to be made public when a special grand jury is called next month. The case is to center about a Cleveland lawyer-politician declared to have offered a $10,000 bribe to an enforcement officer for permission to ship whisky through Cleveland to New York and other coast cities.

"Cleveland money and brains are the backbone of the biggest whisky conspiracy since prohibition became effective," John H. Person, special internal revenue inspector, declared.

Fake Permits Used.

It is estimated by Government officials that since Jan. 16, when the Eighteenth Amendment went into effect, more than $25,000,000 worth of whisky has been taken from bonded warehouses in Kentucky, Pennsylvania and elsewhere by means of fake permits and by theft. Much of this has been disposed of through the Cleveland clique. Blockade runners and their backers in Pittsburgh and other cities are involved.

The most important link in the Government's chain of evidence against the whisky ring is reported to be the lawyer-politician who is said to have offered Prohibition Agent Counts $10,000 for safe passage of large quantities of whisky through his district.

Counts accepted $4000 as a first installment in his office while witnesses saw the transaction through a transom. The lawyer is said to have first approached John Shearer, state prohibition director. Shearer told Counts, and they arranged the trap.

Attorney Offered Bribe.

The lawyer explained the proposition of his principals, and then offered the bribe.

"How do I know you have the authority to speak for these parties?" asked Counts.

The lawyer replied: "Well, I have something in my pocket I'd like to get rid of. Suppose we take a little auto ride."

When Counts objected, the man turned over to him $4000, whereupon Counts called in his witnesses.

"The investigation has shown that the ring planned to carry on a wholesale transportation of liquor by means of motor truck caravans," said Counts today.

ALLEGED BANKRUPT FARMER MISSING SINCE JULY 7

Intervening Petition of Creditors Reveals Disappearance of Wells-ville, Mo., Man.

An intervening petition filed in the United States Court today in the involuntary bankruptcy case against John W. Sutter, a farmer of Wells-ville, Mo., disclosed that he disappeared July 7, and that no trace of him has been found.

The petition was filed Aug. 9 by G. W. Smith and Gus Gastler & Son of Wells-ville, and the Champion Feed & Milling Co. of Clinton, Ia., who claimed that Sutter owed them a total of $3484.13. His liabilities, according to the petition, amounted to $32,528.39, and his assets totaled $21,050.

According to the petition, Sutter committed an act of involuntary bankruptcy by permitting 10 other creditors to levy attachments against his property amounting to $15,948.39.

In the petition filed today, asking that the original petition be dismissed, it is alleged by the 10 creditors who obtained attachments, that for years prior to July 7 Sutter and his wife owned 226 acres of farm land in Montgomery County, and that, after his disappearance, suit was filed in the Circuit Court against Sutter by the intervening petitioners for $18,969.24, which, it is alleged, he owed on notes. The petition denies that Sutter preferred the intervening creditors. He was missing when the suits were filed, the petition states.

Hilton, president of the Association of Attorneys-General, in opening the annual meeting of the association in Hotel Statler yesterday, said that he had been willing to come to St. Louis and die of heat in order to discourage on the cool quality of Minnesota lake breezes. "I had to ask for extra blankets last night to still the shivers," he added.

36 QUARTS OF WHISKY STOLEN

Mrs. E. Richard, a nurse employed in the family of David Frank, 5095 Waterman avenue, whose home was found robbed by the police Saturday, returned home yesterday and told the police the thieves had taken a quantity of clothing and 36 quarts of whisky.

Police on finding the place entered Saturday found a quart bottle partly filled with whisky and three glasses on a table. Empty whisky cases were strewn about the house.

STATE COMMITTEEMEN MEET HERE TOMORROW

Early Arrivals Reach City for Democratic and Republican Organization Meetings.

Officers and members of the Republican and Democratic State Committees began arriving in St. Louis this morning for the meetings of the committees at the Planters Hotel tomorrow, when plans for both campaigns will be decided upon and the new committees, chosen at the primary Aug. 3, will be tentatively organized by the election of chairmen, secretaries and campaign committees. It will be necessary to formally ratify the selections at meetings of the committees Sept. 14.

Among those who arrived today were Chairman Cole of the Republican committee, and E. E. Whitworth of Poplar Bluff and J. U. Pryor Jr., of Hartsville, Republicans. Among the Democrats were Ben M. Neale of Greenfield, chairman; Luther Shepherd of Reger, secretary; Frank Armstrong of Harrisonville, publicity director; E. C. Ord of Chillicothe; State Treasurer Middleton; Secretary of State Sullivan and Attorney-General McAllister.

Principal interest among the Democrats is the selection of a new chairman. It is expected the recommendations of Breckinridge Long, nominee for United States Senator, and John M. Atkinson, nominee for Governor, will be followed, but so far they have not agreed on the individual. It is reported they have narrowed their choice to T. L. Fisher of Marshall and A. L. Harty of Bloomfield. State Insurance Superintendent, and that one of the two will be selected unless the Ninth District Congressional Committee, which meets today in Mexico, elects to the state committee a Democrat more acceptable.

Senator Spencer, renominated, and Arthur M. Hyde, Republican nominee for Governor, several days ago agreed upon J. G. Hughes of Macon for chairman of the Republican committee.

SERVICE COMMISSION COUNSEL DENIES ABSENCE FROM DUTIES

R. Perry Spencer Answers Allegations of Hyde and Farris in Campaign.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 24.—R. Perry Spencer, chief counsel for the Missouri Public Service Commission, yesterday sent a letter to Arthur M. Hyde of Trenton, Republican nominee for Governor, replying to the charges made by Frank H. Farris in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor, and repeated by Hyde in an interview in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, that Spencer "did not devote 24 hours a year to the service of the State."

Spencer said in the letter to Hyde that an examination of the dockets of the circuit courts and of the Supreme Court would show a great number of cases, the preparation of which required all of his time and all of the time of his assistant. He said he had not been absent from the department more than six days since he received his commission except when away on official business. He also said he gave much time to legal advice to the heads of the various departments of the commission.

DAUGHTER DELIVERS FATHER, 77, AS COUNTERFEITER, TO POLICE

Oklahoma Woman Finds Moulds for Making Coins in Parent's Room.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 24.—Discovery in her aged father's room of moulds for making silver dollars caused the daughter of J. E. Kentner to bring about his arrest in Enid, Ok., according to an announcement here yesterday by Federal officials.

Kentner, who is 77 years old, was placed in jail at Oklahoma City to await action of the grand jury, it was stated.

He was convicted of counterfeiting silver dollars five years ago, and sentenced to serve seven years in the Federal prison at McNeal's Island, Wash., according to officials. He was released a few months ago, they said, after having served five years of the sentence, and went to the home of his daughter in Enid. There, according to the story told by the daughter to the secret service agents, Kentner spent much of his time in his room. While cleaning house, she said, she discovered the moulds for making the spurious coins.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Exercising the authority over intrastate rates granted by the transportation act, the Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered hearings at Chicago Sept. 8 on the application of Illinois railroads to increase their intrastate freight and passenger rates in conformity with the increases in intrastate rates recently allowed by the commission.

BOY SCOUTS AT ST. NAZAIRE

American Delegation to "Jamboree" to Start Home Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

ST. NAZAIRE, France, Aug. 24.—The American Boy Scouts who have been attending the "Jamboree" in England and France were visiting St. Nazaire and the surrounding country yesterday while the American transport Princess Matoka, on which they will sail for New York, completed loading her cargo at the American docks. The transport will leave for America tonight.

73 CANDIDATES FOR 12 OFFICES ARE BEFORE MONTANA VOTERS

Nonpartisan League Trying to Capture Places of "Regular" Democrats on Ticket.

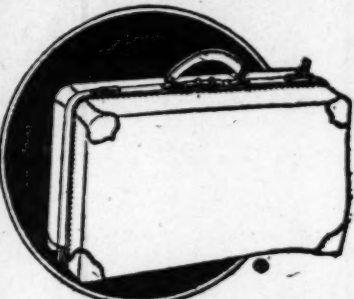

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 24.—Seventy-three aspirants for nomination for 12 elective State offices are before the voters of Montana today in a primary contest whose major interest is the effort of the candidates of the Nonpartisan League to capture the places of the "regular" Democrats on the Democratic ticket.

Both the "regular" and the league supporters have placed a complete list of candidates in the field. Party leaders predicted a heavy vote. The registration for the primary has been heavy.

Eats Candy
but Loses
Her Fat

Here's joyful news for every fleshy person who loves good things to eat, especially those who are dreading themselves the things they like most because of their desire to keep down their weight or to reduce the fat with which they are already burdened.

There is no further necessity to diet in order to keep your weight down or reduce the fat you have already acquired.
The famous Marmola Prescription has been put in tablet form, and is now sold by all druggists at one dollar for a good size box. To get rid of fat at the rate of two pounds a week, take one of these little tablets after each meal and at bedtime until you have reduced your weight to where you want it. No wrinkles or sallowness will remain. Use Marmola Prescription Tablets according to directions a few weeks and get results without going through long sieges of tiresome and starvation diet. Get them at any drug store or send the price to the Marmola Co., 90 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich., and receive them by mail, prepaid,
in plain, sealed cover.

1500 CASES HANDLED BY CAPITAL ENT COMMISSION

Nearly a Third Sold Out of Court —Remainder Sent Ruling on Constitutionality of Law.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The Rent Commission of the District of Columbia, created under the Rent act to safeguard tenants and restrict profiteering, is functioning with considerable success in spite of an adverse court decision as to the constitutionality of the act.

About 1500 cases have been brought before the commission since Oct. 22, 1919, when the Rent act was signed, and of these about 1400 have been acted upon. If these approximately one-third we settled out of court. The remainder will not be finally decided until the constitutionality of the law determined by the United States Supreme Court.

In those cases, however, the landlords have been held in abeyance from evicting tenants. If they refuse to comply with the action of the rent commission and if Supreme Court holds the law is valid, they will face the prospect of $100 fine, or one year in jail, plus a assessment of twice the amount of their excess rent charge.

The commission fixes what it deems a fair rent. More is charged the landlord is liable to pay twice the addition.

About 1500 jewelers from all sections of the country were present when President Arthur A. Everts of Dallas, Tex., called the convention to order this morning.

ORPHEUM THEATER OPENS FOR ITS FOURTH SEASON

Comedy Acts Predominate, and New Orchestra Makes Its Bow.

The Orpheum Theater opened its fourth season yesterday with Joe Gill's orchestra, supplanting Maurice Speyer's and a vaudeville bill of fair quality in which the outstanding features are the instrumental and vocal act of Olson and Johnson, dispensers of music and nonsense; a monologue and impersonation turn by Laurel Lee, a "cute and pretty" soubrette, who crowds the danger line with some of her jokes, and a musical comedy sketch entitled "Love
Letters," with Clarence Nordstrom,
Ola Munson and the nimble Kate
Pullman as the stars.

Bert Kenney evokes much merriment with his blackface monologue in which he talks to an imaginary character whom he calls "Nobody."
Some of his jokes also have rough edges.

Howard Langford and Ina Frederick walk the tightrope of propety with some art in their sketch,
"Shopping," in which the conversation mainly has to do with lingerie.
Jack Dunham and Andy Williams have megaphone voices and deem it necessary to bolster their act with a feminine impersonation that some might think funny. The Pierre de Koch trio are excellent gymnasts.
Elsie La Bergere and two posing dogs do "living picture" tableaux.

Good Vaudeville Bills at the Empress and the Rialto.

For the second week of its new season the Empress offered yesterday five excellent vaudeville acts, although the top liners, Harry Girard and company, presenting a little Alaskan melodrama called "The Luck of the Totem," are the least attractive of the acts. Gorman Bros., with three or four up-to-date songs, easily carry off the honors of the bill, while Housch and La Velle have a very funny Western sketch. Sterling and Marguerite, in a trapeze act, and Violet Goulet, a violinist, complete the bill.

The Ryan sisters, dancers, head the bill at the Rialto this week and

BURGULARS ROB WINE CLOSET

Burglars in the home of Fred Mollencott, 4314 Terry avenue, a former saloon keeper, yesterday, broke into a wine closet and emptied quart bottles of whisky, wine and champagne into larger containers, robbed a cash box and a child's bank and departed. Frank Mollencott, a brother, said he could not estimate the value of the stolen articles. The family is out of town.

The police found 29 empty quart bottles strewn about the floor, together with a funnel left by the burglars and apparently used by them in emptying the bottles.

No hand touches Kraft Cheese till you open the tin

KRAFT CHEESE is blended, sterilized, packed and sealed in parchment-lined tins and then sterilized again by machinery—so that no hand touches it till you open the tin.

The blending insures absolute uniformity in quality, texture and taste. It is always consistently good.

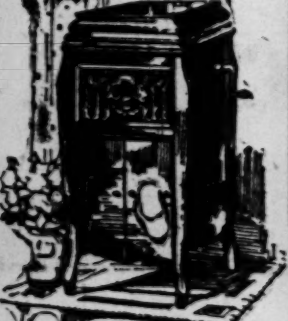

Kraft Cheese is a better cheese because sterilizing improves the flavor. It is wasteless cheese because there isn't a speck of rind. It keeps in any climate without ice.

Kraft Cheese in tins comes in 8 delicious varieties—Cheddar, Pimento, Cheddar, Swiss, Camembert, Camembert and Limburger. At all dealers.

DEBS ISSUES HIS FIRST CAMPAIGN STATEMENT

Socialist Nominee for Presidency, in Prison, Calls League "Dishonest Issue."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The first of a series of statements which will replace speeches in the campaign of Eugene Debs, Socialist nominee for President, now confined in the Atlanta Penitentiary, was issued yesterday by Socialist national headquarters. Debs branded the League of Nations controversy a "dishonest issue" and announced the liveliest question before the American people was the coal shortage.

He declared that while a shortage of cars was making it impossible to meet the demands for coal "Mr. Wilson has had made, by special executive order, 4000 cars of a special design to aid the aristocracy of Poland crush out the only genuine democratic Government on the face of the earth."

Besides denouncing the Republican and Democratic parties bitterly attacking President Wilson and Samuel Gompers, and branding the Farmer-Labor party as a one-campaign organization, Debs compared the so-called "outlaw" strikers to the American railway union men whom he led in the "one big union" strike of 1919.

Assails Other Nominees.

The Socialist nominee said Senator Harding and Gov. Cox "remind me of two humpy-dumplings. They are stuffed people, not real. They have not a single idea for a man who is alive. They get their inspiration from the tombs. The whole performance is artificial."

"Were I campaigning," Debs said, "I believe I should dismiss most of the technical terms and speak in the clearest possible language. I should say there can be no change as long as a few people own this country, its industries and its resources. Take for example the situation in my own town of Terre Haute. Terre Haute is surrounded by coal, is built over a coal deposit, yet it is impossible to get coal at any price. A few owners have taken possession of coal mines. They say, 'this is ours,' and they have shut out the people. The miners are at their mercy and cannot dig the coal even to keep themselves warm, unless the mine owners give them permission."

Deplores Polish Loan.

"The people in this country have not known what their Government was doing in opposing the Russians. It was kept a very private secret until it was revealed by the foreign dispatches, and then Secretary of War Baker was forced to confess that the War Department had loaned $100,000,000 on credit to the Polish Government on the basis of notes which are not worth the paper they were written on. He presented them with $10,000,000 worth of American money which was 'not available' for the American people—although bacon is 65 cents a pound at home—not available because the beef trust objected that it would check the rise in prices. Millions of dollars worth of supplies, including meat, was turned over to the French and they were not allowed to be brought home because they were afraid it 'might reduce' prices to the American people and so check the profits of our 'trusts.'"

American Socialist Party Opposes Polish Socialist.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—The Socialist party of America went on record as opposed to the Socialist party of Poland, according to a statement issued here yesterday by the party's executive committee in answer to the appeal of the Polish Socialist Alliance of the United States asking for support to the Polish cause.

The Polish Socialist party is regarded by the American party as "an organization that is serving the Chauvinist regime in Warsaw," the statement said, and continued: "There can be no understanding with such an organization that has so grossly betrayed the ideals of international socialism. It has become a tool of the imperialist victors of the Entente." Seymour Steedman of Chicago, candidate for Vice President on the Socialist ticket, urged the election of Socialist candidates at the special elections to be held in six New York assembly districts Sept. 16, in a statement issued through the Executive Committee. He condemned the ousting of the Socialists from the New York Legislature, and appealed to Socialists throughout the country to lend aid in securing the election of the Socialist assemblymen candidates.

Selection of the three men designated at the party's convention at New York last May to act as tentative delegates to the third International was reconfirmed. They are James O'Neal and Algernon Lee of New York and Joseph E. Cohen of Philadelphia. It was announced that these men in company with Alexander Trachtenberg of New York would go to Russia to study conditions if passports could be secured.

400 STREET CAR MEN IN DES MOINES OUT ON STRIKE

Union Officials Say They Will Not Resume Work Until Paid $84,000 in Back Wages.

By the Associated Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 24.—Des Moines' long threatened street car strike became a reality at 1:15 this morning when 400 motormen and conductors walked out under orders of the executive committee of their union.

Union officials say the men will not return to work until they are paid $84,000 in back wages due them on an increase in wages granted last spring.

MISSOURI DECLARED BACKWARD IN ADOPTING UNIFORM LAWS

Negotiable Instruments, Warehouse Receipts and Bills of Lading Acts Only Three So Far Passed.

The three Missouri laws which were passed by the Legislature on recommendation of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, mentioned by W. A. Blount of Pennsylvania, Pa., former president of the conference, in an address before the City Club last Friday, are the Negotiable Instruments Act and the Bills of Lading Act.

Blount said Missouri was a backward state in the uniform state law movement, and that many other states had adopted many more of the recommendations of the conference.

Yesterday he gave a Post-Dispatch reporter a list of the conference recommendations which had been adopted by one or more states, and the number of states which had adopted each. They were: Negotiable Instruments Act, 50 states; Warehouse Receipts Act, 42; Bills of Lading Act, 22; Sales Act, 18; Stock Transfer Act, 14; Divorce Act, 3; Child Labor Act, 4; Family Desertion Act, 11; Probate of Foreign Wills Act, 7; Marriage and Divorce Act, 2; Marriage Evasion Act, 5; Partnership Act, 9; Cold Storage Act, 3; Land Registration Act, 3; of Persons of Unsound Mind Act, 5; Foreign Acknowledgments Act, 5; Workmen's Compensation Foreign Probate Act, 3; Extradition and Uniform Flag Law, 1.

Less Than One Week in Which to Choose From Our Incomparable Collection of Quality Furs at Savings of 20% to 33 1/3%

Every indication points to fur prices going very much higher after September 1, the scarcity of ready merchandise, owing to the labor trouble in the fur industry, contributing to this ascent. The furs assembled for this great August event were purchased by the combined Kline stores when prices were at their lowest ebb, and this fact, together with our being content with a minimum profit, all combine to make NOW the logical time to buy furs—NOW, while our magnificent stocks are still complete, and while prices are lower than we believe they will ever be this Fall or Winter.

Increased Demand for Autocars Shows Business Activity

THIRTY-FIVE per cent more Autocar motor trucks were sold in the first six months of 1920 than in the corresponding period of last year.

There is a significance to this increase beyond that of the constantly growing recognition of Autocar quality.

When business men in such numbers foresee and act upon their need for more transportation equipment, it means that, in their combined judgment, the business outlook is good.

Are you bringing your own transportation equipment up to the assured needs of this fall and winter?

TREE PLANTERS ASKED TO USE ONLY 3 KINDS

Park Commissioner Suggests Maples, Sycamores or Poplars, According to District.

Property owners who are going to do tree planting this fall are advised by Park Commissioner Pape, in a statement issued today, to confine themselves to sycamore, maple or poplar, according to the districts in which they live.

Maples should be planted, for the sake of uniformity, because they already predominate, along South Broadway, north to Park, west to Grand, north to St. Louis, east to Glasgow, north to Natural Bridge, west to Fair, north to Florissant, west to King's highway, south to Natural Bridge and west to the city limits, and within the district bounded by these streets.

Poplars prevail, and should be planted, in the district from Skinker road to De Baliviere, from Pershing to Delmar, from Lambdin to Spring and from Kennerly to Ashland.

In all other sections sycamores prevail and should be planted. The sycamore, the Commissioner says, is the best for street planting because it has a tap root. On most streets there is not room for the spreading roots of the maple and poplar. The sycamore also withstands the smoke better than the others. In the sections where the smoke is heaviest it is the only kind that will grow.

Maples are favored by property owners because of their beauty and the long foliage period and the fact that it loses its leaves in two weeks after frost, making it easier to remove the leaves.

Poplars should be confined, Pape says, to the district where they now predominate, because insects are partial to them and the leaves begin to fall soon after reaching maturity.

Preserving uniformity in planting, he says, not only prevents a ragged appearance, but simplifies the insect problem.

Since the Park Department adopted the practice, in 1918, of planting trees for property owners, at $4 per tree, the planting under this plan has steadily increased. In 1918 the number was 166, in 1919 it was 444 and to date this year 1084.

There are 85,000 street shade trees in St. Louis. Besides three principal varieties there are elm, oak, sweet gum, tulip and ash.

The commissioner advises that property owners, when in doubt about what to plant, consult with the City Forester, whose office is at the city hall.

BUSCH ESTATE SUES TO RECOVER $220,638 INCOME TAX

Trustees Allege Payment Was Made Under Misapprehension of the Law.

Suit was filed in the United States District Court yesterday afternoon by the trustees of the Adolphus Busch estate to recover $220,638 paid as income tax in the years 1913, 1914 and 1915. The payment, it is stated, was made under a misapprehension of the law, and it was later discovered that during those years the income of an estate was not taxable under the law. An amendment to the law, which became effective Sept. 9, 1916, is held to have made such income taxable.

Mrs. Lily Busch, August A. Busch and Charles Nagel, as the trustees of the estate, filed the suit. It is stated that a request for a refund was denied Jan. 17 last by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington.

NEGRO BURGLAR IN WOMAN'S BEDROOM GETS PURSE AND $12

Woman Hands Money From Beneath Her Pillow When Pistol Is Pointed at Her.

Mrs. James Price, 40 years old, 4117 Lindell boulevard, was aroused from sleep about 5 a. m. today to discover a negro burglar in her bedroom, which is at the rear of the first floor.

When she started to scream, the negro pointed something at her which she thought was a revolver. With a demand, "Where's your money?" She took her purse, containing $12, from beneath her pillow and handed it to the negro, who ran out the front door, which he apparently had left open.

Price, who had been asleep in a second-floor room, also was awakened by the noise and rushed downstairs in time to see the negro run across the street, through a vacant lot and disappear behind some buildings.

VERDICT OF HOMICIDE IN KILLING OF MAN BY AUTO

A coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned today in the case of Beverly A. Dyer, 60 years old, 4060 Washington boulevard, manager of the Laundry Dryer and Heater Co., 1104 Pine street, who was killed at 9:45 o'clock Sunday night by an eastbound automobile, which did not stop, as he was crossing Enright avenue, about 20 feet east of Sarah street.

Witnesses testified that the automobile was going so fast that they were unable to obtain the license number or determine how many persons were in the car. Dyer was hit by a front fender of the car and tossed upon the running board, his body rolling off after it had been carried several feet, the witnesses said. The automobile was described as a black touring car.

MEETINGS PRECEDING BAR CONVENTION HELD

British Ambassador to Arrive Today—Viscount and Lady Cave Already Here.

Meetings preliminary to the convention of the American Bar Association, which begins tomorrow morning in the Shubert-Jefferson Theater, were held today.

A meeting of commissioners on uniform state laws was held this morning in the auditorium at Hotel Statler. A conference of Bar Association delegates was held in Union Electric Hall. The section of criminal law met for organization purposes in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals room. The Association of Attorneys-General met in the first floor grill room at the Statler. The section of public utility law met in the Daniel Boone room of the Missouri Public Service Commission was one of the speakers.

Cohen Commends Fights on Bosses. Action of the Detroit Bar Association in using its influence to obtain the election of from men, from boss control, as judges, similar to the endorsement given by the St. Louis Bar Association to certain candidates for judicial nominations at the recent primary, was commended in the report of Julius H. Cohen of New York, secretary of the Conference of State and Local Bar Associations.

Cohen told delegates to the conference that the question of bar associations using their influence to obtain election of clean lawyers as judges might as well be taken up as a topic for discussion and action by each state bar association.

A report of the committee appointed to define what constitutes the practice of law declared that the test of whether an act is in the practice of law depends upon whether it involves a knowledge of law, a re-dressing or prevention of a wrong, the securing, enforcing or depriving of a right. The trend of the committee's report was against the growing tendency of laymen to appear before commissions, handle wills and preparation.

The conference, which is attended by about 100 delegates, is to decide during the afternoon whether it will become a section of the American Bar Association, instead of just an allied body, at present. It also will elect officers today.

Section meetings for this afternoon are those of the judicial section, in the United States District Court room; legal education, in the Central Library clubroom, and continuations of some of the morning sessions.

Geddes to Arrive Today. Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, will arrive this evening, accompanied by his secretary, H. Y. Tennant. He will speak at the opening session of the association's meeting, in the theater. All the meetings of the Bar Association will be open to the public. The general sessions, tomorrow morning, afternoon and night, Thursday morning and night and Friday morning and afternoon, will be held in the Shubert-Jefferson Theater.

Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana is to speak Thursday night on "The Attack on American Fundamentals." At Friday morning's session Charles E. Hughes of New York, Republican nominee for President in 1916, and Ben B. Lindsey of Colorado are on the program. Former Justice Hughes' subject is "Legal Aid Societies, Their Function and Necessity." Judge Lindsey's subject is "Justice Without Cost for Parent and Child."

Minimum Standards Required by Law Schools Outlined by Speaker. The meeting of the Association of American Law Schools, held in conjunction with the Bar Association convention, was addressed last night by Eugene A. Gilmore, professor of law in the Law School of the University of Wisconsin.

He outlined the minimum standards which, he said, 50 law schools have now pledged themselves to maintain. These standards are:

1. All candidates for a law degree must, before beginning the study of law, have completed a four-year high school course, or such a course of preparation as might be accepted for admission to the state university or to the principal colleges and universities in the state where the law school is located.
2. Three academic years of resident study of law in day classes.
3. A law degree shall be conferred only after the attainment of a certain grade in scholarship, ascertained by written examination.
4. The school shall own a library of not less than 5000 volumes.
5. The faculty shall consist of at least three teachers who devote substantially all their time to the school.

He emphasized the fact that these are minimum standards, and that about 38 of the schools require as preliminary education, one to four years of college work. In 31 of the schools the completion of four years of high school work two years of college work, and three years of resident law study in the classes are required.

ALKALI IN SHAMPOOS BAD FOR WASHING HAIR
Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulisid coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulisid at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulisid.

Gasoline Prices Follow Crude

"What," asked a customer recently, "has caused the sharp advance in the price of gasoline?" And our answer was substantially as follows:

The advances in the selling price of gasoline which have occurred since January 1st, were due primarily to the increased cost of crude oil. The market on all grades of crude took an upward trend during the latter part of 1919, and has been climbing steadily since that time.

During 1919 gasoline prices remained stationary, the refiners absorbing the increased cost of crude as long as it was possible to do so. In January, 1920, gasoline prices generally were advanced to meet the increasing cost of raw material.

Another factor was the practical exhaustion of gasoline reserves brought about by the unprecedented demands for this fuel. During the first months of this year the consumption of gasoline greatly exceeded production.

But the primary reason was the constantly increasing price of crude oil.

Still other reasons for the mounting prices are the greatly increased cost of labor, of steel, and of other items used in manufacture; also the constantly advancing cost of marketing and distribution. Everything that goes into the refining of petroleum is very expensive today.

But the primary and controlling reason is found in the increasing cost of crude.

In keeping with its well-known policy, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been able to maintain low prices for gasoline in the face of advancing prices for crude oil because of its large scale operation in refining, and its complete and economical system of distribution. And, also, because of its advanced facilities for obtaining a maximum quantity of gasoline from a given quantity of crude.

The Middle West depends largely upon gasoline power for producing food stuffs.

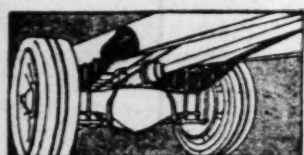

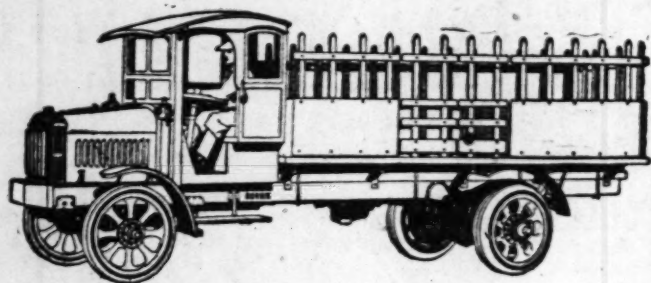

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is straining every fiber of its highly specialized organization to meet this demand.

BANDIT ZAMORA IS CLOSELY PURSUED BY FEDERAL ARMY

Six Americans Released by Outlaws, but Several Others and Two Britons Are Held for Ransom.

LEADER KNOWN AS
"PERPETUAL BANDIT"

He Succeeded to Command
at Death of Outlaw Jose
Garcia and Is Considered
Ruthless Commander.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—Pedro Zamora, the bandit chief, whose men carried off a number of captives, including several American and British subjects, from the town of Cuale,
State of Jalisco, Aug. 20, is being closely pursued by Government troops, said Gen. Eduardo C. Garcia, chief of staff of the War Department, last night. He added that the bandit's followers were rapidly deserting and that "by the end of the month," not more than 15 or 20
would remain of the band.

Six Americans who were held by Zamora have been released, but there are several more still in his hands, and at least two British subjects are being held for ransom. It is possible the list of Americans and British captives is as yet incomplete.

Cuale, where the victims of the raid were captured, is a small mining town and is the location of the La Union mining operations, which are operated by the La Esperanza Mining Co. of El Oro, State of Mexico.
Information relative to the outrage has been coming from Cuale by the way of that company's offices. These reports have been contradictory, but information received from this source and elsewhere would seem to indicate that upwards of 300 women are captives of the outlaws.

British Make Protest.
American and British diplomats made representations to the Foreign Office and were told the Government was bending every energy to capture the bandits and liberate the captives.
"Every official from the provisional President," said the Foreign Office, "is profoundly concerned over the incident."

Mining officials, Government authorities, and American and British diplomatic agents are trying to get in touch with Cuale, but reports they have received are meager and contradictory. The War Office has heard nothing of the progress of the force of 5000 troops sent into the State of Jalisco, Aug. 18, to round up the Zamora band, and rail communication in that section of the country is very poor, the country being very mountainous. It is believed, however, it is too early to expect results from the military expedition.

Called "Perpetual Bandit."
Zamora, who has been called a "perpetual bandit," succeeded during the last year of the Carranza regime in the leadership of outlaws in the States of Michoacan and Jalisco.
This step was made easy for him by the death of the notorious outlaw, Jose Inez Chaves Garcia. After Carranza's death, Zamora made some sort of promise that he would return to a peaceful life, but Aug. 11 he attacked the town of Autlan, looted the place, and carried off a large number of captives. Upwards of a score of young women who were captured during this raid killed themselves rather than face the life before them as prisoners of the bandits. It is declared.

W. B. Johnson, a subject of Great Britain, was captured there and was carried by the bandits on their trip northward toward Cuale, where the second outrage occurred Aug. 20.
After the Autlan incident the Government sent troops in pursuit of Zamora, with orders to exterminate the band. It also declared Zamora an outlaw, which gives anyone the right to shoot him on sight.

Tenement Fire in New York.
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Eight persons were injured in a fire, which trapped more than a score of families in a five-story East Side tenement house early today. Only quick work by firemen and police prevented a heavy loss of life. Two men were seriously injured when the flames forced them to leap from a third-floor window. The heat was so intense that firemen played streams of water on men, women and children crowded on the fire escapes, to keep them from being burned to death

while awaiting rescue.

Burman Shows Class, Defeating Frank Daly After Rough Battle

By John E. Wray.

THAT main event fighters capable or wrongly satisfying critics at 610
 611 Louis fight fans are as rare as gold-filled hens' teeth was again evi-496 dent last night, at the third show of the St. Louis Athletic Association at 497 Battery A drill yard, where some 3000 fans, with skin goose-fleshed by 498 the chill night air, saw Joe Burman of Chicago, Frankie Daly of New 319 York and Referee Walter Helsner wrestle and maul each other for eight rounds to an unofficial decision in favor of Burman.

The early periods were a succession of clutches, with Referee Hiesner sweating copiously over his Herculean task of keeping the men separated. They were harder to part than a sensitive back and a reluctant crowd plaster.

During the six first rounds the crowd didn't know whether to cheer or complain; but at the close of the contest, after the men had improved, they began to cheer.

Battery A Results

JOE BURMAN, Chicago, outpointed Frankie Daly, New York, eighth rounds; weight: BURMAN 225, Daly, under 120.

The eighth round showed conclusively that ignorance of the rules did not have everything to do with the success of such a fight. Burman went after his man in the right way and, fighting in the open, administered the worst punishment of the evening. The climax was the right hand blow to the chin which almost spilt the little Staten Island boy. He kept his feet and gargyle look like a beauty prize winner by comparison, because of his low stature, elected to a comedy department. From the start and throughout the engagement he ripped savage, battering blows at the feet of his opponent, the taller Chicagoan to grab for all the arms he could reach, in order to stop the hammering. Each dash by Daly led to an immediate clinch and wrestling match, with the two men in a way that almost defied separation.

Beginning with the first round here, the two men kept on separating. Macklin, worked like a coalheaver helping to stoke a transport through the submarine tunnels.

During the second round, the two men fell right together again and resumed the unsatisfactory though his gameness and willingness to fight.

Macklin Is Fouled Twice.

The preliminary bouts were not as good as usual. Rough-house tactics spoiled the Macklin-Leaders fight.

The leading fighter ought to join a boxing club. The amount of energy would have more utility than in a boxing match. He fouled from a spectators' viewpoint method of assaulting each other.

"Let 'Em Fight," Crowd Advises.

Heisner persisted in parling them, although the crowd at times shouted "let 'em fight." The referee rightly concluded that even the interference stopped to rest Macklin, who desired to continue rather than to take a foul verdict.

Al Thomas is still there with the old cleverness and the open-glove punch, for which he was cautioned repeatedly by Heisner. He was too

His efforts were rewarded toward the close of the contest. After the fifth round Burman showed a strong desire to follow the referee's wishes, but Daly offended steadily to the end.

shifty for Silver.

Meyer Bender spent most of his time searching out the bull's-eye on Kid Bell's ribs and jaw and got started too late. He was going well in the fourth, but the enemy's early lead beat him.

HAGEN LOWERS COURSE RECORD IN MATCH WITH VARDON AND TED RAY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 24.—

Walter Hagen lowered the course record of the South Bend Country Club here yesterday afternoon when he registered a 69 for the last 18 holes of the 36-hole match which he and Charles Evans Jr. played against Edward Ray. American open champion, Hagen, 38, and Evans, 32, thirty-two years, today were bracketed in the championship flight of the eighteenth annual tournament of the Women's Western Golf Association. They qualified yesterday out of a field of 189, the largest in the history of the association.

and his fellow countryman, Harry Vardon. The old record was 73, made a year ago by Evans. The two teams playing best ball, halved the match, each winning 18 holes. The approach of train time made it impossible to play off the tie.

Vardon registered the only eagle

The totals for the 34 holes were: Vardon, 146; Ray, 145; Hagen, 144; Evans, 143. The course is 6190 yards.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

How Women Will Vote.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 As one of the newly enfranchised voters, I want to say that the idea expressed in many quarters that the new "citizens" will make political results in November uncertain is quite correct. There are going to be, in my judgment, a number of surprises, and especially will they come to the "old-timers" in the game.

Some women may follow the lead of their husbands, voting the party ticket straight through and falling in with old traditions and customs, but a great many. The large majority of them are thinking for themselves and can be depended upon to act accordingly. And they are independent thinkers and actors. The men think they know where to place the women and that they will place them in November, but, pray tell me, when was a man ever able to thoroughly understand and place a woman? I predict that the November election is going to be a record-smasher in many ways. A lot of office holders who have held their places on account of party bosses and "regular" influence will automatically retire and more clean men who stand for principle will take their places.

Right thinking citizens of St. Louis started something in the recent primary when they broke down a portion of the machine. They will finish the job in November.

ONE OF THEM.

Protect Employers' Eyes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 A few days ago there was an article in the papers quoting the leading optometrists on the light question and I wish to echo their sentiments. Every office worker who has had to sit under those so-called indirect ceiling lights, which throw such a glare on the desk and work, dazing and blinding a person, knows they are an injury to the sight.

The small drop light, with green shade, on the desk below the eyes, instead of above them, is the proper and sensible light. One can see perfectly with the light on the desk below the eyes, but is only blinded and made to do bad work when it is above the head, shining down into the eyes.

Now is the time, before the fall rush of business comes, to change and improve the lighting system. Efficiency should come before style.

EFFICIENCY.

Increased Demand for Social Workers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I hope that it may be possible to give wider publicity to the fact that at the present time we are suffering from a great dearth of trained social workers. The war called special attention to the need of such workers, and the Red Cross and even the Government itself drew heavily on the available supply. Since then, private organizations have begun to solicit the general need of the trained worker, but have not found a sufficient number on hand. In addition many young women have gone into industry instead of the professions although social work offers excellent remuneration and is a source of satisfaction to everyone wishing to be of service. The great need today is for mature young women to take a training course in social service and to fit themselves for a profession that is constantly demanding a larger force of workers. Today the demand far outstrips the supply but the majority of educated young women do not know of this condition and as a consequence they enter other walks of life. With the splendid opportunities ahead of them a large number of earnest and socially-minded women should turn to the profession of social service and make it their life work. And training for this profession is an excellent investment. It means a vision, advance, and a future.

GEO. B. MANGOLD.

Director, Missouri School of Social Economy.

They Are Not Forgotten.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 In reply to the two young soldiers who made a pathetic appeal in behalf of their young soldier friend who was blinded in the great world war, speaking of the people who passed up his little shop where he is trying hard to make an honest living, to go to a store farther down the street, not even stopping in to give a lift to the poor boy who has lost everything that made life worth living in the great war.

Yes, these are, as you said in your letter, the same people who, at the beginning of the war, shouted themselves hoarse at the approach of a few soldiers, who patted them on the back and encouraged them in every way. But, Oh! how different when they come back.

But I want to say to you that all people are not like that. Most people's hearts ache for those poor boys and most people will do everything to help them. Your friend is simply in the wrong place. Try again elsewhere. I know he will succeed. God has not forgotten those dear brave boys who fought and saved us from the Kaiser. Let us all remember them.

A GOLD STAR MOTHER.

MR. HYDE'S OMISSION.

In his interview in Sunday's Post-Dispatch Arthur M. Hyde, Republican nominee for Governor, declared earnestly and at considerable length for honest elections. He flayed bosses and bosses, in admirable sentiments. Upon this issue of honest elections manifestly there is, and can be, no division of sincere opinion. The honest election is the irreducible minimum if popular government is to endure. So, without disparaging Mr. Hyde's intensity of emotion on this question, it may candidly be stated that a nominee for Governor must go beyond elements in presenting his candidacy to the people. He must discuss the administrative problems of the times and outline his policies for solving such problems. Important as is the purification of practical politics, it is quite as important that the candidate for Governor shall let the public know what to expect constructively from his administration.

Mr. Hyde partly met this requirement in his discussion, and as the campaign progresses will doubtless supply the deficiencies of his first pronouncement. The Post-Dispatch, however, is inclined to believe that there will be considerable disappointment in Mr. Hyde's failure to endorse unequivocally the proposed State bond issue of $60,000,000 for the construction of good roads. There is no intimation, to be sure, that he will oppose the proposal, but his omission to take an enthusiastic affirmative on this question, especially in view of his Democratic opponent's pledge to "advocate as vigorously as possible the adoption of the proposed $60,000,000 road bond issue," is difficult to account for.

There are several questions of first magnitude before the people of Missouri at this time, but none of them is of greater consequence than the proposed State road bond issue. Our low educational rating, for example, which Mr. Hyde properly characterizes as a disgrace, is a disgrace which will never be removed except by good roads. Missouri has got to spend millions on her schools—in the construction of modern facilities and in the payment of decent salaries to teachers; but if we sprinkled the State with the finest schoolhouses and raised teachers' salaries to profiteering figures, of what benefit would it be to the boys and girls of Missouri if they could not get to the schools?

There is but one way for Missouri out of the educational and political mud, as well as the physical mud, and that way is the hard-surfaced road. And the opportunity to begin the construction of a State-wide system of good roads is found in the adoption of the $60,000,000 road bond issue at the November election. Mr. Hyde should tell the people of Missouri at once where he stands on this question.

PONZI'S CLIENTELE.

The names of some 30,000 persons have been found on the books of Ponzi. All classes were represented in the clientele lured by the 50-per-cent dividend—office boy and Judge, the $25 picker, the $50,000 plunger. Credulity, like genius, is no snob. Neither is avarice. They are found everywhere, from the pits to the heights.

The Ponzi enterprise explains the successful flotation of the wild-cat schemes which are part of the history of every mining excitement and which recently have flowered luxuriantly in oil. It is said that more than $500 has been invested in oil ventures in Oklahoma for every dollar of oil produced. Whatever the figure, there is no doubt that the public has been swindled of enormous sums by the gentry skilled in the art of plausible, appetizing mendacity.

There is little doubt, either, that a considerable part of the public will always be ready to hand over its money to one type or other of impostor. Blue-sky laws and more exacting incorporation requirements may make operation more difficult for gentlemen who live by their wits, but the statute has not been written which will prevent the gullible from being plucked.

Banditry seems to have developed into a recognized occupation these days. That South Tenth street manufacturer, whose safe caused three fruitless nights of work to yegmen, may yet receive a bill demanding overtime pay.

AN ELEPHANT ON SHORT RATIONS.

Pity the poor old elephant. His bones stick through, his hide flaps about his sides, his shrunken bulk is supported on tottering legs. We all know that it takes a big fund to provide fodder for his normal appetite, and this year Mr. Harding affirms there is hardly money enough to buy seed for a canary. Elephant h. c. l. is on a plane with h. c. l. generally and the "enfranchisement of women has increased the legitimate financial requirements of a national campaign," so says the Senator. Why, instead of a campaign fund of scandalous Newberry amount, as charged by Gov. Cox, the party is awfully hard up, adds Mr. Harding reproachfully, and it has had to borrow a little matter of $250,000 from a kind friend. Can't Col. Procter do a little something? He made a considerable outlay before the convention, but surely there is an obligation for further sacrifice. Has the sight of a hungry elephant no suggestion for Gov. Lowden?

A Grand Old Party that is reduced from the comfort and ease of affluence to the shabby-genteel extremity and has to dodge bill collectors is a moving spectacle. The senatorial committee has wisely decided to look into the distressing case. One of those lessons that cannot be repeated too often on frugality and the need of laying by something for a rainy day may result from the inquiry.

TROLLEY SERVICE AT COST.

After more than a year of inquiry, the Federal Commission on Electric Railways has submitted to the President a report on the condition of urban and interurban transportation in the country.

A Mayor, an ex-Mayor, representatives of state regulatory systems, of the trolley companies, of banking interests and of the street car men's unions are among the eight members of the board. The fact that men entertaining these diverse viewpoints adopted the report unanimously gives unusual weight as well as interest to the conclusions reached.

Testimony taken by the commission shows that in very many localities street car service is inadequate. Among the reasons assigned for this condition are overcapitalization, financial mismanagement, public antagonism, increasing costs of labor and material. In addition to these obvious reasons, it is found that extensions into unprofitable territory promoted for real estate speculation, failure of employers and employees to co-operate and the insufficiency of 5-cent fares have played a part in contributing to the inferior service. In general the credit of the industry is found at a low ebb.

Of the two great recommendations in the report, the first is that the schedule of fares shall be fixed on the service-at-cost principle, of which a highly successful object lesson has long been given at Cleveland, but which is also in force at Cincinnati, Dallas, Montreal and other cities. The second is that all labor disputes should be decided by adjustment or by arbitration, with the award of the arbitration board made binding on both parties to the dispute. "It is intolerable," say the commissioners, "that the transportation service of a city should be subject to occasional paralysis, whether by strikes or lockouts."

The new capital required to enable the companies to restore their credit and meet current needs in extensions and plant improvements is estimated at from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000 annually for the present. As the service-at-cost principle prevents a larger profit than a fair return on investment, so it logically would eliminate special assessments for pavements, sprinkling and other things which the community, not the straphangers, should bear, as well as any tax above the same percentage on property value which other property pays. Public ownership is condemned under ordinary circumstances, though it is strongly insisted that, for the moral effect and emergency use, the right of public ownership should be recognized and all legal obstacles to it removed.

No survey as comprehensive, disinterested and practical as this into the street car problem has ever before been made. It should avail for the enlightenment of public thought.

Not only valuable, but particularly timely, is its exposition on service at cost, which the Post-Dispatch has repeatedly emphasized as the most direct and promising remedy for many street railway ills. We are now approaching a period when a decline from the level of high operating costs seems inevitable. Service at cost, put in effect at an early date, would give us a progressive reduction from high street car fares and prevent their collection when no longer justified.

Due to unexpected delays en route to Warsaw, Comrade Lenine has decided to revise his schedule for conquering the world.

MISSOURI'S TWO SPLENDID CITIES.

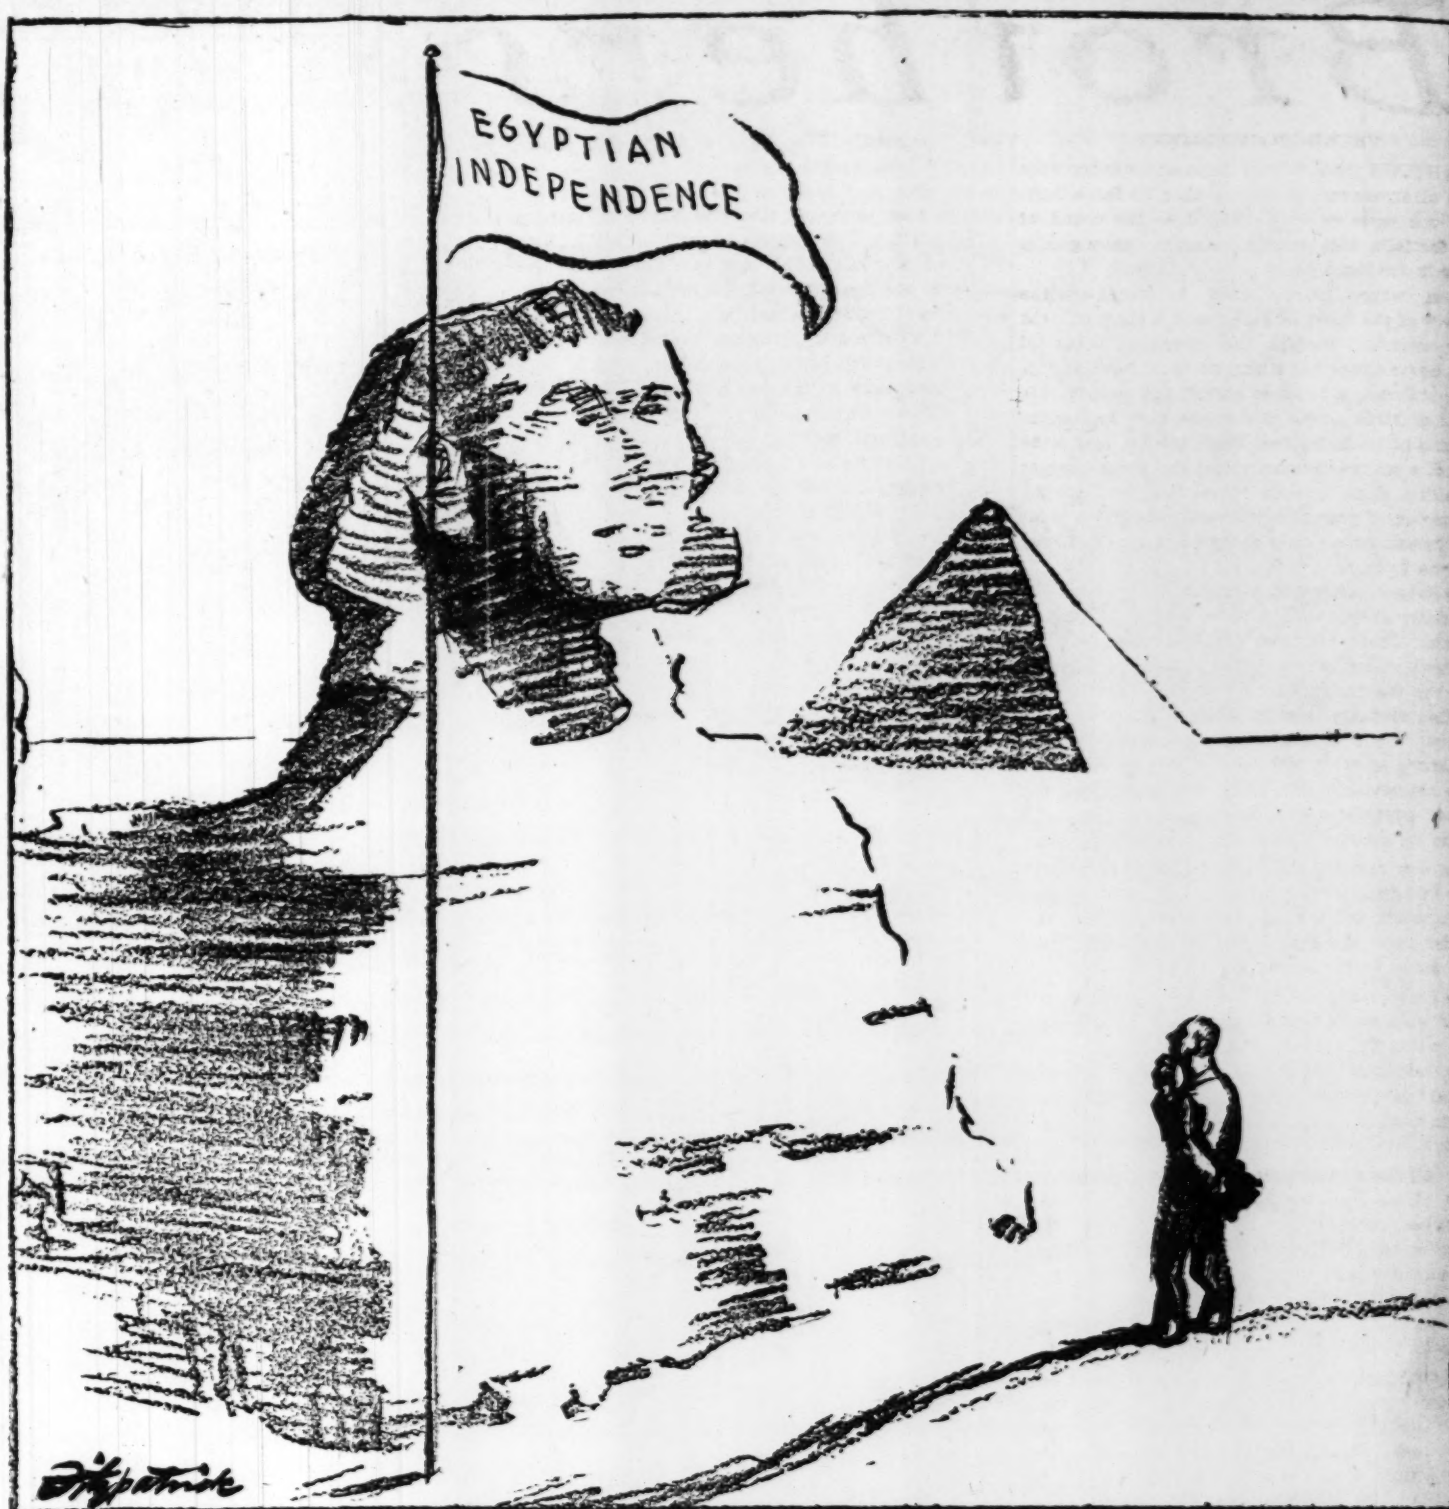

Returns on Kansas City are bright figures among Missouri census reports whose showing in some other respects supplies cause for regret and incentive for new efforts. The town of second rank in the State increased its population by 76,029 in the last 10 years. St. Louis' population increased $5,971. Kansas City's percentage of increase, figured on its lesser former population, is 30.6, while St. Louis' percentage of increase, figured on its greater former population, is 12.5.

Kansas City, Mo., now has 324,410 inhabitants, and Kansas City, Kan., has 101,078. With other suburban towns, Missouri's second city is now the center of a district with half a million urban inhabitants, in round numbers, and a computation of like scope makes St. Louis the center of a district with considerably more than a million urban inhabitants.

Where is there another state with two such important, aggressive metropolitan centers as St. Louis and Kansas City, each with its own independent tributary territory of rich resources, each presenting abundant business opportunity, the one with more than a million, the other with half a million people, and both alert to the worth-while things that make life richer? In these two, probably Missouri is seen at its best, so far at least as progress along many important lines is concerned.

These twin, rich, powerful, splendid cities, have a responsibility to less fortunate parts of the State. They should make their great social, political, financial influence felt in ways that will revivify the Missouri of the future.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"OUR is not the first Senate to deal civilization a blow in a great crisis," Mr. Antwerp said.
 "In 62 B. C. there returned to Rome very much as Mr. Wilson returned to us from Paris and upon a strikingly similar errand Gnaeus Pompeius, known to us familiarly as Pompey, one of the strongest men in Roman history. He had been for some years in the East bringing order out of chaos in the Levant and the region on to the Euphrates, and he brought back with him something comparable to the covenant of the League of Nations. We will let history tell what happened when he got back. The following is a quotation from Fowler's History of Rome:

"Now in settling this frontier system Pompey had, of course, to attend to an infinite number of details, and to make decisions, convey privileges, negotiate treaties and grant charters, in dealing with those cities, new and old, which formed a most important part of his plan of settlement and defense. All this had to be done on his own responsibility, but would need the sanction of the Senate to be recognized as legally valid. When he returned home in 62 B. C. he expected that the Senate would give this sanction, especially as he had just disbanded his army, with which he might, if he had chosen, have entered his claims. But the senatorial government was reduced to such a state of impotence that the majority would give nothing to do with Pompey's invaluable work: they were jealous, they were lazy, and, above all, they were ignorant. So he had to fall back, after a year or two, on the consul of 59, C. Julius Caesar, who undertook to get the necessary sanction from the people if not from the Senate."

"It is gratifying to know that Caesar succeeded in doing this, setting the Senate to naught. I am sure we cannot read this without being struck by the parallel to what has just happened in our country, the description of the Senate particularly being so applicable to our own that we could not improve upon it if we tried."

A correspondent who has an acute case of rhymitis sends us this: Maybe there are girls with other names whose praises could be sung as melodiously, but we are not going to try: The movie queen on the silver screen Is a sweet and fair colleen, I ween, But stout or lean, Or in between, She has no mien like my Irene.
 M. H.
 If that doesn't fetch her, M. H., it is only because she has a soul above poetry. Some girls are that way. There once was a girl who married a plumber. If verse won't win her, try getting a job. Desperate expedients are sometimes effective.

A RENOVATED MANAGER.

One of our rival newspapers has this: "Freshly painted, decorated and renovated throughout, Manager Melville Stoltz announces the opening of the American Theater on Sunday night, Aug. 29."

Still, the people who profited in sugar must have come out of it with automobiles of all sorts, fine country homes and goodness knows what rewards of piracy, and those of us whom they have held up for the past few years can't feel very sorry for them now they are caught by a failing market. If we need to rid ourselves of war for humane reasons and reasons of civilization, we also need to get rid of it because it lets loose the wolf in business, exposing us to greed more damnable than anything in war itself. If we could all pay our rent on the day before election we would probably vote for the League of Nations.

William J. Locke complains that not being permitted to write about the war the novelist all but finds his occupation gone, and having just read Joseph Conrad's new book we can well believe it. The man who gave us "Chance" and "Admiral Jim" long ago left us from year to year in keen anticipation of something else from him, but since we have read "The Rescue" we agree with Mr. Locke that the novelist is at sea. Mr. Conrad is at sea in his new book somewhere along the coast of Borneo, and unless we are badly mistaken he is aground. Let us hope he gets off. At a time when there is not much that is good to read we need him.

Mr. Cox complains of the same thing of which Mr. Bryan complained in several contests with the Republicans, and as little attention will be paid to it now as was paid to it upon those prior occasions when the presidency was bought and paid for by those whom the Republican party protects.

The New Republic does not know how to vote since somebody else seems to be running all the parties. The New Republic likes to run its own party, and when it cannot do that it can make Achilles look like an eager participant in whatever is on.

RESERVATIONS TO ARTICLE X.

From the New York World.
 IF the League of Nations be the covenant of AD the treaty of peace and the covenant of the League of Nations be ratified with the Lodge-Borah reservations to Article X, the President's hands would have been tied and he could not have lifted his finger in any way to help the Poles or to give them even moral support. That reservation provides that "the United States assumes no obligations . . . to interfere in any way in controversies between nations, including all controversies relating to territorial integrity or political independence, whether members of the League or not, under the provisions of Article X . . . unless in any particular case the Congress shall in the exercise of full liberty of action, by act or joint resolution so provide."

Under the Lodge-Borah reservation the President could have sent no note to the allies for that would have been the assumption of an obligation to carry out the policy therein defined. It is doubtful if the American representative in the League of Nations could have voted in favor of any policy; for that would have meant the assumption of some sort of obligation. There would have been nothing to do when the Polish crisis arose but to ignore it or convene Congress in special session and ask what the United States might be permitted to do, as a member of the League of Nations, to prevent Poland from being extinguished by the Bolsheviks. By the time Congress finished the debate, the Poles would either have been conquered or the danger would have been so far averted that our moral assistance would have been useless. In any event there could be no assumption of any obligation unless Congress saw fit to assume an obligation, and the Bolsheviks could be sure that they had nothing to fear in the League of Nations from a United States which had formally repudiated all responsibility. No matter what happened to the Poles, they could still be sure of Henry Cabot Lodge's personal sympathy.

POST-WAR VIENNA.

RENATO LA VALLE in Il Giornale d'Italia (Rome).
 ACCOMPANIED by an agent of a relief commission, whose mission it was to inquire into the condition of the countless families asking for assistance, I visited recently some 30 homes, where laughter and happiness have completely vanished, where the spectre of hunger is a daily visitor; and yet where the previous abundance is still a vivid memory. The houses still show much evidence of comfort and refinement. Here and there a valuable piece of furniture remains; but the large rooms still richly carpeted give indication that much has already been sold. You see occasional nicknacks and works of art, for which purchasers could not be found, or to which the family still cling for reasons of sentiment; garments carefully repaired, but still suggesting the best shops of Vienna from which they originally came; walls showing where pictures, perhaps of value, have been removed. The family circle formerly gathered, but now used in giving lessons to pupils whose fees eke out a starvation income. In these homes you see hands, obviously unaccustomed to rough labor, emanating from under-nourishment and scorched and spotted by rough domestic service. So you meet everywhere in Vienna the rich of yesterday, unable to comprehend the privations of today, overwhelmed by their new condition, driven sometimes to shameless berygry—untidies whose primitive instinct of self-preservation has robbed them of every trace of their former dignity and self-respect.

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

THOUGH thankfulness, hope and wonder were all strong in his soul together, he felt a curious sense of abandonment as the sound of her footfalls died in the distance, leaving him alone in the tomb.

From where he crouched he could see the shadow of the cross lengthen, and a shaft of light grow mellow. Besides the distant clangor of guns, never altogether silent, he could hear, in this inner stillness, a hundred significant sounds; the flight of birds across the ruins; now and again the ring of tramping feet along the far aisle; the bark of a savage German voice; the sudden pattering of falling stone, groans of settling timber, and whispering of crumbled mortar in its down side; and, by and by, as dusk gathered, a renewed roar of guns from both sides.

He stepped out at last from among the bones of the medieval knight into the gloom of the ruined church. The cross now stood a black shadow against a starry sky.

It was the "brown hour," as the French have it, when men are to each other as shadows upon shadow. Peter Montayne, nevertheless, thought the advice to creep had been wise. He began to draw his young length along the ground, coiling himself over the stones and fragments; keeping always to the right, as the nun had bidden him.

Out now through a breach he glided like some fairy tale dragon from his hole. There was grass to his touch, and a rush of cold air to his lungs. Yonder away the guns clamored and there were high glares in the heavens.

He crawled some 20 yards and felt more protected when he got beneath that part of the church wall which still stood. He curled round a buttress—and then brought himself short. A patch of light lay yellow, as if painted on the grass, just in front of him. It came from a small round window level with the ground.

An impulse stronger than reason drew him forward. He looked in. And, when he had seen, regardless of risk, he remained staring. The chapel of the crypt, a place of immense strength and antiquity, with the round arches and the squat pillars of early Norman days, turned into quarters for some high German official, and now illuminated as for a ceremony!

All over the occupied country, the conqueror surrounded himself with blazing light the whole night through, for fear of treachery. This Peter knew, and it did not surprise him either that this underground retreat should have been chosen for its safety. Nor did the vision, strange and varied as it was, of the church treasure accumulated there under his gaze caused him to wonder. Sacred vessels of gold and silver, glinting with gems; vestments, brocade and tapestry, heavy with gold embroidery, encrusted with precious stones; reliquaries, monstrances, censers, crozier heads, shrines, caskets, crowns, chains, ivories, enamels—a medley and a fire—the vast treasures of centuries of faith, of ecstasies, of worship, of riches poured out before the altar as Magdalen poured her spikenard! This loot of glory was partly tumbled into packing cases.

Knowing that the Hun had held the town for over a year; knowing, too, his habits of instant appropriation, Peter guessed that the hiding place of these marvels could only just have been discovered, and that they were being packed against the time of coming departure.

Upon a camp bed, sprawling over a rose-colored satin elderdown, lay a huge, obese, elderly man in uniform, sunk in drunken lethargy. Champagne bottles were tossed amid the sacred treasure—a lurid contrast; sordid, yet appalling. But the eyes of Peter rested on none of these things. They were drawn, fascinated, to the figure bound to the middle pillar—to the young man with head sunk over his breast and limbs relaxed against the ropes that held them as one fainting.

Peter instinctively thrust his hand into his side pocket and felt for his knife, then he moved away from the window; and, once outside the shaft of light, lay, his elbows on the grass, chin on his palms, reflecting. He no longer thought of the convent door behind which lay his security. There was just one thing before him now; to get into the crypt, somehow, and cut the captive free.

He crept round the ruins till he came to the broken main porch. Somewhere, he thought, just within the church, he would find one of the entrances to the crypt.

He was not mistaken. Here were steps; and, at the foot of them, a door ajar; a glimmer of light behind it. It was more than rash; but Peter, blessing the gun duel that covered lesser noises, ventured to descend and reconnoiter. A lantern stood on the flag, a rifle propped against the wall—a sentry post deserted, a Colonel dead drunk! Here was demoralization, indeed. The nun had been right; it spelled defeat! He had a great sense of victory about him as he strode down the narrow vaulted passage and pushed open the door at the end of it.

The chapel of the crypt, bedchamber and prison house, fantastically bright; the drunken sleeper; the youthful victim, half fainting against his bonds—if the wheel of time had turned back, here might well be a picture out of the dark ages; the Barbarian and the Martyr! Peter's clasp knife was already open in his hand; not a moment could he give to question or reply.

The boy—he was little more—raised his drawn face, with its sunken eyes, and stared wildly. Then, with a convulsive movement, he thrust out his chest and raised his head.

"I am quite ready," he said hoarsely in German. "Take me out and shoot me. I am not afraid."

"Hush, sonny!" Peter ordered under his voice. But the other went on; he was in a delirium. "You have not broken my spirit. Two years' torture and you could not break the spirit of an English soldier! Look at me, I am not afraid. I would do it again. Shoot me, and put on my grave: 'Rupert Claverling, Lieutenant Coldstream Guards, who slapped the face of the Colonel commandant'!"

"Hush, sonny!" Peter ordered under his voice.

The knife in Peter's hand was suspended for one second as the name struck his ear. Rupert Claverling! He laughed out loud. Now he knew why he was not to die yet!

One after the other the bonds fell. "Now, sonny, pull yourself together!" urged Peter. The moments were too propitious to last. The boy started. Into his fever-haunted eyes came a startling wonder, a flash of joy.

"English!" he cried and made a sudden movement forward. One leg doubled up under him and he fell unconscious at Peter's feet.

"The knee, is it?" Stooping, Peter passed his hand testingly down the numb. "Aye, those brute! Tied you up to gloat on your pain, and your death vigil! But you slapped his face. You got the best of it, Rupert Claverling." These thoughts were floating through the airman's mind as he lifted the inert figure. "It's as well as it is, my brother, for I should be hurting you damnably, with that broken knee cap. Now your arm over my shoulder—round my neck. Up with you! Now a good clutch with the left hand, the right free for the Browning, in case master sentry!"

In moments of intense strain men will speak to themselves thus—the spirit issuing orders to the flesh.

The Browning was not needed. There was no one to bar the way for Peter and his burden. Not that Peter cared. He knew that nothing, that nobody, would have power to stop him; knew that he was accomplishing a foreordained deed; that a prayer had been answered—that a great debt was about to be paid.

As the wind struck his face, and what he could see of the sky stretched above him pierced with innumerable stars; as he saw the flag fill like a sail against it and fall again, he laughed once more in the depths of his soul. "And there are people," he said to himself, "who think there is no God!"

Certainly some great movement was expected on the morrow. King George's guns were thundering over there as if they meant to bring down the world!

The old nun was keeping her word. The door gave under his touch, without a sound. He stepped into a tiled passage lit by a small oil lamp; instantly three white-coiffed figures appeared on noiseless feet, and the door was closed behind him. The old kind face looked at him; there was consternation on it. The old, kind hand fell about his wrist peremptorily. One nun went forward, holding a light; and Peter, carrying his English mother's son, was conducted without an instant's pause, down deep stairs, into a great cellar. Here he laid his burden gently on the ground—and the consternation on the old nun's face found voice:

"I can save only one!"

"That's all right, ma soeur," said Peter, straightening himself, "so long as you save that one."

She hesitated. "But he looks like death!" she exclaimed; and added practically: "Is it worth while?"

Her eyes went back and lingered on the splendor of youth and strength that smiled at her.

"It is only his knee. He will not die of it! Besides, he cannot, he must not."

One of the nuns knelt by the unconscious boy and felt his pulse.

"It is true. There is good life here," she said.

"Ah, mon Dieu!" cried the old nun and began to explain, very quickly: "You see, it is like this. We have the hospital upstairs. Soldiers, wounded and sick, mostly Germans. One was brought in yesterday, badly hurt in the head. I knew he could not live the day. He is dead. We can dispose of the body and put another in his bed, all bandaged as he was, round the face. No one will know the difference. Besides, they do not trouble now about the wounded any more. No one will guess—and in two days the English will be here."

"It is perfect," said Peter.

"But you?"

"Ah, ma soeur, what a question!"

She heaved an immense sigh.

"Allons, mon enfant! We can put you into the garden, through this passage—but, after that?"

Peter smiled again.

"As God wills it."

A week later it was officially announced that Lieut. Rupert Claverling, Coldstream Guards, reported wounded and missing in March, 1917, had been found in hospital at Dangeville l'Abbaye when the advancing British troops retook possession of that town on Oct. 18.

On the same day, among the lists of casualties, appeared the statement that Capt. P. A. Montayne and Lieut. P. Whiteside, R. F. C., were missing, believed killed.

They are together in the white boudoir. Her hand clasps the hand of her son, as if she must assure herself by the touch that he is really there.

It is just a year since Peter Montayne lay on that sofa where now Rupert sits, his injured leg outstretched, rigid in plaster of paris. Many times he has told her the story of his incredible experiences; how, in punishment for some heroic insolence, he was cast from the very beginning of captivity among those unfortunate set to work under the fire of their own comrades. His spirit was to be broken by order of the commandant—a favorite ambition of the Hun, to break the spirit of an Englishman! Yet, after nearly two years' torture, it had leaped up, in fiercer blaze than ever, and he had slapped that same commandant's face.

The mother can listen to this. She has even a fine, cold smile, to think of the German tyrant defied by this boy not yet of age. But she cannot bear to hear of the night in the crypt when her son was tied up in agony for the beast to gloat upon his prey. Yet one question she must ask: "Tell me, when the ropes fell away from you, and you knew it was deliverance—not dawn and the hour of execution—try to remember—yes, I know, it all became blank then, you fainted. But that flash, that impression? An airman, you think?"

Rupert, sitting under the Vandeyck Cavalier, his serious boy's comeliness so extraordinarily repeating that of the picture, ponders, his chin upon his hand.

"I am sure, an airman. He was bareheaded. His face—how shall I describe it? Oh, yes, I can see it quite clearly. No need to try after that memory, mother darling; it's stamped into me."

"Describe it to me, then." Her voice deepens. "How shall I describe it? A kind of eagle face. Radiant. Yes, radiant! With a sweep of black hair, like a crest!"

"It was he! Oh, it was he! Something told me! Oh, I wonder, did he know? It would have been just as grand if he had not. But my heart tells me he knew!"

And, holding the hand of him who is given back to her from the dead, the mother, who could not weep for her son in the flesh, cries out the tears of her heart for the son of her adoption. (Copyright, 1920, by Agnes and Egerton Castle.)

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Little Rabbit Finds a Friend.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

IF ever there was a thoroughly miserable little rabbit that one was the willful little son of Peter Rabbit as he crouched in his hiding place in the old stone wall and gazed up at the sharp face of Chatterer, the Red Squirrel. Chatterer had just told him that old stone wall belonged to the Striped Chipmunk and himself and had ordered that little rabbit to leave at once.

Now, of course, that little rabbit hadn't the least idea where he could go and he was. He had asked Chatterer in the most polite way where he could go.

Chatterer scowled and tried to look very fierce. "I don't care where you go. Go anywhere, but get away from here as soon as you can. Now, let me see what those long legs of yours are good for."

The frightened little rabbit prepared to crawl out of his hiding place and once more started into the Great World. There seemed to be nothing else for him to do. Chatterer wasn't as big as he, but there was something very fierce about him, and the little rabbit dared not disobey. Besides, there was Striped Chipmunk, and that made two against one. Then, too, this old wall belonged to them, and he really had no right there. So, with a big tear starting from each eye the little rabbit prepared to go.

Then for the first time Striped Chipmunk spoke: "Don't you pay the least attention to that red-coated cousin of mine," said he, kindly. "We don't own this stone wall. You have just as much right here as we have. Chatterer lives in the Green Forest and really is only a visitor here. He is simply trying to scare you. Don't mind a word he says. I live in the old stone wall, or, to be exact, in a hole in the ground under it. So if anyone has a right to claim this old wall, I have. But it doesn't really belong to me. It doesn't belong to anybody. There is plenty of room for you, and I will be glad to have you stay as long as you want to. Just don't heed Chatterer. He is a mischief-maker and nothing else."

At once Chatterer began to hiss. Striped Chipmunk and call him names. His tongue fairly flew, and the faster it flew the angrier he became. Finally he made a rush at Striped Chipmunk. Striped Chipmunk dodged and then raced away along the old stone wall, with Chatterer at his heels. In and out among the stones of the old wall they went, until Chatterer was forced to stop.

The little rabbit watched them in round-eyed fear. This time it wasn't fear for himself, but for this new friend, Striped Chipmunk. He watched them out of sight, and he hoped with all his might that Chatterer would not catch Striped Chipmunk.

For sometime he heard Chatterer's sharp scolding voice in the distance, and then for a while all was still.

"He couldn't catch me to save his life on this old wall," said he.

Could it mean that Chatterer had caught Striped Chipmunk and killed him? It was a dreadful thought. The little rabbit couldn't think of anything else. He even forgot his own troubles. He forgot his torn coat and the places that smarted from the sharp claws of Spooky the Screech Owl.

"You must be Peter Rabbit's lost son," said a voice so close at hand that the little rabbit jumped. There, looking in at him was Striped Chipmunk.

"Oh!" cried the little rabbit. "Oh! I was so afraid that dreadful fellow had caught you!"

Striped Chipmunk laughed gleefully. "He couldn't catch me to save his life on this old wall," said he. "And he isn't such a dreadful fellow, either. It is all bluff. That is all; just bluff. Now tell me, aren't you Peter Rabbit's lost little son? Peter was over here yesterday looking for you."

"Yes, sir," replied the little rabbit. "Yes, sir, I'm his son. And—and I guess I am lost."

Peeping Pansy Fairy Tales

By MARIE, QUEEN OF RUMANIA.

Mrs. Grumps' Philosophy Fails to Answer Pansy's Questions.

ONCE inside the home of Mrs. Grumps, the wise old owl, Pansy found herself climbing a steep little stair covered with dust. Dust pervaded the air and made her sneeze. It was very dark, but Pansy went on climbing. In front of her she heard a continual sound of ruffled feathers.

Suddenly the stair came to an end and Pansy found herself in front of another door, and Mrs. Grumps was fumbling at it with her beak.

"This is my private apartment," exclaimed the feathered lady.

"Can I help you?" asked Pansy. "No you can't," said her companion none too politely: "I do not need little human girls to show me how to open my own doors."

At last the door was opened, and Mrs. Grumps led the way into a neat little room paneled with birch-bark. There were shelves all round at the top, and many interesting things were stored away on those shelves. There was one tiny little round hole of a window and a table beneath it, upon which lay a fat book with a large pair of spectacles thrust between the leaves to mark the place. An armchair was drawn up close to the table.

"I do not know if you are aware," said Mrs. Grumps, pompously, as she settled herself in the armchair, "that I am the wisest of birds, and that one of my ancestors was closely in touch with a Greek goddess."

"Oh!" said Pansy, much impressed, but little understanding what she meant. "Are you a teacher?"

"Oh, dear no!" said Mrs. Grumps. "I am a philosopher."

"How interesting!" said Pansy, understanding less and less. "I sit here in my tree-house," continued Mrs. Grumps, "and philosophize about all that is, that was and that shall be."

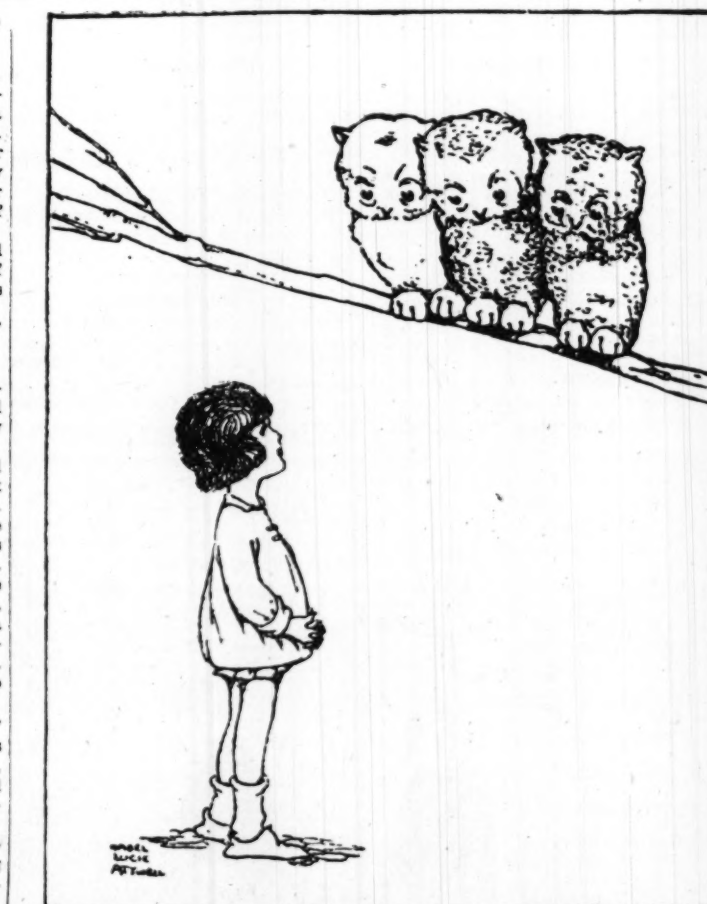

"May I ask three questions?" demanded Pansy.

"Yes, you may," said Mrs. Grumps in a patronizing tone.

"Well," said Pansy, after a moment's hesitation, "I want to know which would be the most interesting door in all the world to open?"

"(Pansy made a pause)—and, how can I get to the foot of the rainbow?—and, where could I meet the Blue Bird?"

"Um-hum," gumbled the philosopher; "your questions do not quite enter within my circle of speculations, but let's begin with the first. The most interesting door to open is the door you will never be able to open, because you will always imagine that it is hiding something wonderful, just because you cannot see it—that is the most interesting door without any doubt. The thing you have seen is never eyes with an irritating expression of satisfied superiority.

On a broad perch sat three adorable balls of fluff.

Pansy could not help wondering if Mrs. Grumps was sitting on her tail or on her feet; somehow she had never thought of an owl sitting in an armchair.

"Now you must answer me about the Blue Bird," insisted Pansy, abandoning the rainbow regretfully as one abandons a lost cause.

"The Blue Bird," said Mrs. Grumps, "is a wonderful creature each man imagines he will meet with one day."

"But I want to know," protested Pansy. "Is it a big bird or a small bird? Has it a beautiful voice? What sort of blue is it, like the sky or the sea? Or like the corn flowers, like the bottom part of a flame, or only baby like smoke or the distant hills? I want to know if it lives in a forest, or on a hilltop, or in a cage, and I want to know if it can talk?"

"It certainly does not live in a cage," said Mrs. Grumps. "As to its size and color, I have never seen it myself, no more than anyone else, so I cannot describe it to you. But perhaps one day you will imagine that you have found it, and then you will be very happy."

Pansy thought this over for a while. "I don't think any of your answers are very satisfactory," she said; "in fact, they are not real answers."

"They are philosophic answers," declared Mrs. Grumps pompously.

"She wants to make me seem stupid, so that she should seem much cleverer," thought Pansy to herself, "but as I am in her house, I had better not make her angry, and I shall ask her an easier question."

Aloud she said: "Are you a mamma of many little owls?"

If an owl could smile, Mrs. Grumps would have smiled at this question, which was certainly more homely than the other three.

"I am a mother, grandmother and great-grandmother," said Mrs. Grumps complacently.

"Are any of them living with you in this nice little house?"

"I have three great-grandchildren living with me in a room above. If you want to visit them, you can open that sort of cupboard over there, and behind it there is another staircase."

"Are all of your family as wise as you?" asked Pansy somewhat anxiously. "My great-grandchildren are only future philosophers," was Mrs. Grumps' dignified answer; "we are all born philosophers in the family, but it only shows itself later on. Now you may climb my back stairs in search of the little ones, but I shall remain here to ponder upon different verities."

"She also talks of verities," said Pansy to herself; "but I am not going to ask her any more questions just now as her temper is a little on edge, so I had better visit the children, and leave her to her philosophy, and all the deep, dull things she imagines she knows."

So thinking, Pansy opened the cupboard door and slipped inside. After some climbing she reached another door, and in pushing it open found herself in a quite round little room, which was stuffy as well as small.

On a broad perch, stretched across the room, sat three adorable balls of fluff. The one was snow white, the other was rust-colored, and the third was stone gray.

In These Days

Long ago the cows were driven up to people's back doors and milked there. Then came bottled milk, delivered at your door.

Now comes Nestlé's Every Day Milk!

It's the modern way instead of bottled milk and cream because it's the safe way, the convenient way, the economical way. And it's much richer than bottled milk because the useless water is taken out. Ask your grocer.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

"THE BEST LAID PLANS."

Crime germs lurk in the teeth, and when they are out in order the criminal turns from his evil ways.—A Scientific Journal.

"Some years ago," the burglar said,
"My loving wife and I decided
Our little son must earn his bread
In less precarious ways than I did.
For cops are growing keen and stern
And judges harsh and unforgiving.
And now a burglar scarce can earn—
Without great risk—a decent living."

So when we read that teeth and crime
By scientists have been connected,
And most of those now doing time
Have left their molars long neglected,
We bound the youngster, hand and foot
To quell his bitter opposition,
And had a high-priced dentist put
His little teeth in good condition.

"Our child will live within the law,"
Said we, his trimmed incisors viewing.
"A sound and renovated jaw
Will turn his mind from evil doing.
He'll gain a fortune of his own
By living straight and clean and thrifty,
And, in old age, he'll not be known As Number Four-Eleven-Fifty."

"Alas, our cherished plans went wrong
Although his teeth, as we intended,
Continued to be sound and strong
He recently was apprehended.
The skies that seemed so fair and bright,
Ats for us can never clear off,
For in a fight the other night
He went and bit a party's ear off."

Turn to the Right.

Perspiration rolled down his brow
as he desperately chewed his pencil and stared vacantly down at the blank sheet of paper before him.
It was the final examination of his senior year at college. To fail it in meant that he could not graduate;
that he would be disgraced; that his whole life would be ruined. Shud-ders involuntarily passed through him as he realized that he was a rank failure.

The paper of the man on his left lay invitingly before his eyes. But he did not glance at it. One could see that he was struggling valiantly against temptation, and, though the effort was heartrending, he would sacrifice everything for the sake of honor.

How He Did It.

One of the very substantial men of a thriving town in the West is named Garry McIntyre. One day, in conversation with a number of soldiers from a military post nearby,
he said:

"I understand you lads are going on a hike. When you reach Snake River, take a good look at it. It's full of undercurrents and eddies.
Boys, I am the only living man who ever swam that river."

Several days later the men crossed the Snake River on a cable ferry.
The ferryman chanced to inquire,
quite casually of a waiting soldier:

"Do you know a man down in your country by the name of Garry Mc-Intyre? They tell me he has accumulated a lot of money."

"I was talking to him only the other day," said the soldier. "He told me he swam Snake River once."

"That's right; he did," said the ferryman. "He sure did; but we were all shooting at him."—Philadelphia Ledger.
